

Laird Stresses Need Of Improved Weapons

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said today it is "absolutely essential" that the United States proceed to develop new submarine and bomber systems to maintain bargaining position for further strategic arms limitation talks—SALT—with the Soviet Union.

Laird urged Congress not to take unilateral action to do away with the United States ability to add the Trident submarine, the B1 bomber and other weapons to its offensive arsenal.

If Congress takes such action, Laird told the Senate foreign affairs subcommittee on operations, "I believe the opportunity to negotiate any kind of an agreement that is meaningful to insure the safety of our people and the peace of the world would be diminished greatly."

Laird said the recent SALT agreements in Moscow will permit funding reductions for U.S. antiballistic missile (ABM) defensive systems.

"But funds for offensive systems in the fiscal 1973 budget will remain very much needed," he said.

Laird said the Trident, under present planning, would not be available before late 1978 or early 1979.

By that time he said the Soviet Union will have 90 Y class submarines while the United States will have 41.

He said there has been no change in the U.S. authorized ceiling since 1958.

Laird appeared in support of the administration's request for $780 million for the foreign military assistance program and $527 for foreign military sales.

The Senate subcommittee is headed by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who asserted in advance that the Pentagon is using the summit-meeting accords signed in Moscow May 26 as an excuse to press new and expensive submarine and aircraft-weapon systems.

"If the movers and shakers of the military-industrial complex have their way, the military savings from the strategic-arms-limitation agreement (SALT) will be as fleeting as the peace dividend." Proxmire said in a prepared Senate speech today.

Congressional leaders emerged from a two-hour presidential briefing Friday expressing bipartisan support for both the treaty limiting antiballistic-missile (ABM) defensive weapons to two sites in each country and the executive agreement limiting Soviet and U. S. nuclear-warfare armaments.

The ABM treaty will go to the Senate alone for ratification by a two-thirds vote.

Fire Damage

Part of the $2,000 in damages to the contents of the Franklin D. Rogers home, 523 East 13th, is revealed in this picture taken at the scene of a $10,000 blaze which guffed the home early Sunday. Fire Chief Emmett Vaught called the residential blaze one of the biggest in years here.

Showdown Tomorrow

McGovern, HHH Battle

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sens. Hubert Humphrey and George McGovern disagree on the best way to get U.S. prisoners released by North Vietnam. Humphrey wants President Nixon to send a special emissary to Hanoi, while McGovern says only a total U.S. withdrawal could get them out.

The POW issue, and Humphrey's contention—quickly denied—that McGovern's proposal for sharp defense spending cuts could leave Israel defenseless, were the chief points of disagreement Sunday as the two top presidential contenders met for their third televised confrontation.

As a result of a weekend court order, they were joined on the hour-long ABC program "Issues and Answers" by Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty, New York Rep. Shirley Chisholm and Maj. Gen. Taylor Hardin, representing Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace.

That prompted Humphrey, trailing in several polls in Tuesday's California primary showdown, to suggest that he and McGovern buy time Monday night for a fourth meeting that would be a true debate between them, rather than a question-and-answer session with newsmen.

McGovern said he was willing to do it if his schedule permitted, then issued a Monday schedule that includes a visit to New Mexico, where a primary is also being held Tuesday, and calls for a late-night return to Los Angeles.

He also suggested the debate could be held before the June 20 New York primary.

In suggesting that a special emissary to Hanoi might settle the POW question, Humphrey said that President Nixon could send John B. Connally, the Texas Democrat who resigned as Nixon's secretary of the Treasury. McGovern said he doubted if "John Connally, who's been one of the foremost supporters of our involvement, is the right man to get us out."

Meanwhile, Humphrey's campaign chairman, Jack Chestnut, charged that McGovern has exceeded the $460,333 radio-television spending ceiling for the California primary and has spent $507,391.78. McGovern said the listing had mistakes in it, and that his total is $456,490.

The 271 California delegates that will go to the winner of Tuesday's primary are the day's big prize, but another 144 delegates to the Democratic National Convention are being picked in three other primaries—New Jersey (109), New Mexico (18) and South Dakota (17).

McGovern aides say they think their man has a good chance of winning up to two-thirds of the New Jersey delegates.

McGovern, Humphrey and Wallace are considered the main contenders in New Mexico, where the delegates will be divided proportionately between the two top finishers.

McGovern has the only slate of delegates entered in the primary in South Dakota, his home state, so is assured of its 17 delegates.

Although Mrs. Chisholm agreed with McGovern, Yorty and Hardin on the POW issue, she said more military pressure was the best U.S. course.

On the issue of the Middle East, Humphrey charged that McGovern's defense cutback proposals would weaken the U.S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean and said "the senator has not supported in the Congress of the United States the commitments and the resources which Israel needs."

Will Consider Bids For Sewage Lagoon

The opening of bids on the Southwest sewage lagoon project and the appointment of 39 people to serve on 15 city governmental groups will highlight city council action at 7:30 o'clock tonight at city hall.

City Engineer Robert Cunningham said the lagoon will be the first main project to be constructed under a master plan initially conceived in 1965. It will be a main interceptor sewer which will replace three small pump stations on Clinton Road, at 32nd and Limit and near the MKT Railroad underpass.

The federal government will pay 55 per cent of the project's cost with the state contributing 25 per cent. The remaining expense will be paid by the city from general obligation bonds authorized in 1963.

Mayor Jerry Jones will present for Council approval a list of persons he has recommended to be named to the following city advisory groups: Airport Board, Bothwell Hospital Board, Crown Hill Cemetery Board, Commission on Human Rights, Board of Trustees for the Crown Hill Cemetery Perpetual Fund and Housing Authority.

The Board of Park Commissioners, the Police Merit System Personnel Board, the Examining Board of Plumbers, Public Library Board, Board of Public Works, Citizens Advisory Traffic Committee, City Planning and Zoning Commission, Zoning Board of Adjustment and Commission on Environmental Quality.

In other business, the council will open bids for applying approximately 50,216 square yards of bituminous slurry sealing on 41 city street blocks and on one city parking lot.

The Council will also act on recommendations by the Planning and Zoning Commission to approve a request by Del Heckart, 3102 Skyline, to rezone property from R-1 to C-O and reject a request by Mrs. Delores Smiddy, 1622 West Broadway, to rezone property at that address from R-1 to C-O.

The council in addition will consider an application by Gary Bilderback for a five per cent liquor by the drink permit at the Mark Twain Restaurant and Steak House.

Postage Cutback Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Rate Commission today called for a $78.3-million reduction in postage rates proposed by the U.S. Postal Service.

The decision, first of its kind since the Post Office Department was reorganized in 1970, called for cutbacks in the Postal Service's proposed rates for parcel post, airmail letters, ordinary post cards and items handled by second-class mail-users primarily magazine and newspaper publishers.

The Postal Commission recommendations are identical to the temporary rates put into effect last year for first class, air mail, post cards and parcel post. For second class, primarily magazines and newspapers, the commission urged a drop in the temporary rate of 1.9 cents per piece to 1.6 cents, plus advertising.

The commission, acting unanimously, overruled its chief hearing examiner in recommending that airmail fares be kept at 11 cents an ounce instead of the hearing examiner's proposed 13 cents and that ordinary post cards carry only 6 cents postage instead of the Postal Service's requested seven cents.

It estimated the savings alone on ordinary post cards at $25 million.

The Postal Rate Commission let stand the current temporary eight-cents-per-ounce charge for first-class mail.

For second-class mail-users, the commission urged the service to simplify its complex rate structure and recommended that the proposed 1.9 cent per piece cost be reduced to 1.6 cents, with the zone rate spread for advertising reduced from 11.8 cents to 9.9 cents between Zones 1 and 2 and Zone 8.

For parcel post it recommended there be no increase and that the cost remain at 21 cents for the first pound and 10 cents for each additional pound, a one-cent reduction from the Postal Service's recommended 22-cent and 11-cents rates.

The commission also urged that the third-class bulk mail rates proposed by the service be implemented immediately.

The impact of the commission-proposed postal rates was not immediately known since the Postal Service board of governors can overrule the Postal Commission by a unanimous vote to set rates that would pay the cost of moving the mail.

Say Loss $10,000 In Residence Fire

A fire of undetermined origin completely gutted the inside of a frame house at 523 East 13th early Sunday morning. Fire Chief Emmett Vaught called the fire "the biggest house fire we've had here in recent years."

Vaught said the residence, owned by Franklin D. Rogers, was unoccupied when the blaze broke out at 3:17 a.m. Sunday. No injuries were reported.

Firemen battled the blaze for three hours with two pump trucks. They were summoned back to the residence at 7:02 a.m. Sunday to extinguish smoldering furniture which had been thrown into the back yard of the residence.

Firemen estimated damage to the building at $8,000 and damage to contents at $2,000. Firemen reported no damage to neighboring houses.

Vaught said the fire apparently started in the front room of the house and then spread up the staircase to the second floor.

Firemen were notified of the fire by Mrs. Manton Rank, the night desk clerk at Bothwell Hospital. She said a man came into the hospital and told her to call the fire department when he saw that the house was on fire.

The house is at the corner of South Ingram and East 13th, about a block from the hospital.

Planning Changes To Fight Pollution

Sedalia's Pittsburgh-Corning Corporation may change, by the middle of August, some of the chemical ingredients in glass manufacturing in order to comply with the Missouri Air Conservation Commission (MACC) requirements. According to an official of the corporation, George Gregory, Port Allegheny, Pa., who is handling the corporation's anti-pollution research, changes in the Sedalia plant will depend on the success of experiments being conducted in the Pennsylvania plant. "We have the same situation here," he said explaining the need to comply with state air pollution control requirements.

He said the Pennsylvania factory will drain off the present chemicals and replace them with a new composition to see if the change would meet the requirements. If successful, the new raw material will be sent to Sedalia for use, he added.

Gregory said the known alternative to changes in raw material is "most undesirable" — installing $800,000 worth of air-cleaning equipment which takes between $80,000 and $100,000 a year to operate.

He said a cheaper alternative is still in the pilot project stages in Canada and therefore may not be ready for use in Sedalia before the August deadline required by the MACC.

Mickey Marshall, MACC's chief of enforcement, Monday told The Democrat-Capital that Pittsburgh-Corning officials "have put themselves on a good deadline" by asking for an August compliance date.

He said the alternative given to the company was between installing a pollution control device or changing the chemical composition. The company decided to try the second alternative, he said.

Marshall said to his knowledge there had been no local complaints in the company action taken by Pittsburgh-Corning on a national level. He indicated it was up to firms such as Pittsburgh-Corning to meet compliance standards set by such groups as the MACC.

Arts and Crafts Project

Working on an arts and crafts project are children attending a summer camp called "Camp Kadaka" at Liberty Park. The camp is sponsored by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. They are, left to right, Lisa Aschenbrenner, instructor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rod Aschenbrenner, 2608 West 32nd; Tammy Smalley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Smalley, 820 West Third; Danny Caton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Caton, 521 South Lafayette; and Mrs. Gary Edwards, instructor, 415 North Prospect. The camp which runs from June 5-30 is open to children between the ages of six and 12 and enrollment can still be made by calling Mrs. Carol Barnes, 700 South Park, at 826-4265.

British Royalty Mourning For Duke

WINDSOR, England (AP) — Britain's royal family mourned the Duke of Windsor today at a funeral service in Windsor Castle, with Queen Elizabeth II sitting next to his duchess, the woman for whom he gave up the British throne.

The service for the former King Edward VIII underscored the final reconciliation in the royal family controversy over the king's decision to abdicate to wed an American divorcee.

About 100 officials and family mourners joined the royal party in St. George's Chapel on the grounds of Windsor Castle. The much-married Henry VIII and other British monarchs are buried in the chapel.

Among leading officials at the ceremony were Prime Minister Edward Heath, opposition leader Harold Wilson, and the Earl of Avon, who as Anthony Eden was foreign secretary at the time of the abdication.

Two hundred other guests were seated in the nave of the chapel. Attendance was by invitation only.

The queen sat facing the catafalque where the coffin lay under the duke's personal standard and a sheaf of white lilies.

At her left sat the duchess, now 75, a slender figure dressed in black, veiled and composed.

The queen herself had been instrumental in bringing about the royal family's reconciliation with the duke and duchess, who lived in voluntary exile since the abdication. The queen visited her uncle, the duke, in Paris shortly before his death. She invited the duchess to stay at Buckingham Palace for the first time in the days preceding the funeral.

At the service's close, the Archbishop of Canterbury intoned the blessing and then four trumpeters sounded the Last Post as the coffin slid from view into the chapel vault. Finally, the queen and duchess walked out into the morning sunlight.

Internment on the lawns of the royal mausoleum inside the castle grounds was private.

The Dean of Windsor, the Rt. Rev. Launcelot Fleming, conducted the service. Also officiating were the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsey, and the Archbishop of York, Dr. Donald Coggan.

When Fancy Ties Go Some Shoes Do Too

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with shoe manufacturers who make shoes with fancy ties, often odd lengths, but do not provide the stores with extra ties. These laces are usually so vital to the good looks of the shoes that when they break the shoes have lost their style. — NANCY

DEAR POLLY — First I want to thank you for the many helpful hints I have found in the column and then used to make my life easier.

I want to tell Irene who complained about changing typewriter ribbons that I use a pair of disposable rubber surgical gloves when changing my ribbon and then wash the gloves on my hands with full strength dish detergent. — ALMA

DEAR POLLY — As I do secretarial work Irene's complaint about changing typewriter ribbons being such a messy job caught my eye. Irene must be using an obsolete typewriter because I change my ribbon quite frequently and do not mind a bit. Mine has the ribbon in a cartridge so all to be done is destroy the old cartridge and slip the new one on and with no mess and it is done in a couple of minutes. Irene, the inventors really have been at work. — CAROL

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — I have a new sweater made of 100 per cent virgin acrylic fibers (Japan) that has a strong odor resembling that of a wet dog that has just had a bath. I have washed it in that well-known cold water solution for wool and the odor was very strong while the sweater was wet and remained after it was dry. Any suggestions will be gratefully received. — NADINE

DEAR POLLY — As a safety feature the new water-jumpers for babies have a plastic sleeve over the spring mechanism to keep little fingers from being pinched. I have the older type without these sleeves so I unscrewed the springs and covered them with cardboard tubes such as those from waxed paper, foil, etc. and then replaced the springs. If such springs could not be removed the tubes could be cut up one side, placed around the springs and then taped in place. Some tubes may have to be cut to fit the length of the springs. — MRS. R. L. W.

DEAR POLLY — My husband is in the construction business and has to meet the public daily so he does not like to wear patched jeans. When his pants show the first sign of wear I cut a patch from the back part of the leg of a wornout pair and sew it inside the front leg. When the patched pair wears out I feel I have really gotten my money's worth. A dollar saved is like four or five bucks earned. — MRS. R. K. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Knits For Travel Fun

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Let's get away from it all. Summer '72 is the time to travel and the news in knits makes getting there half the fun — they're great traveling companions.

Latest in knit news for summer are the "hus" and "hers" knits.

Knockout knits in soft, stretch terry, lush cotton and wonderful blends — long, short and middle lengths for day and evening — spell out a fashion story that made headlines recently at King's Inn in Freeport, Grand Bahama Island and will have top billing at all resorts as the summer wears on.

Clear, bold colors stand out against sea and sand — nauticals in blue and white add red for a touch of old faithful. Red and purple combine in variegated stripes. And Aztec prints and animal patterns are fresh and charming new looks.

Pattern-on-pattern separates in Acetate-nylon or polyester-cotton are great put-togethers while layers with the look of boucle make for fine fashion in a note of practicality.

Best of all, they pack wrinkle-free in a modicum of space, wear beautifully and switch about with versatility. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Homecoming

'For the Beauty of the Earth' is the title of a slide and music program to be presented by Elmer Gerhardt, Boonville, to Syracuse alumni at their annual homecoming Saturday.

The alumni meeting will begin at 7 p.m. with a basket dinner according to Mrs. Linda Allee, president, and the program will follow.

Garden Club Notes

The Sedalia Rose Society met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wehmeier Thursday where Mrs. James Richardson gave a program on ornamental plants that belong to the rosaceae family.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lugen assisted the hosts and Russell Reed, Kansas City, was introduced as a guest.

Mrs. Paul Read presided over the meeting.

NAIL TIPS

Your nails have to be in good shape to get away with the bold nail polishes which range from red to plum. If you don't have long, lovely nails, don't wear colors that will focus attention on them. Use clear polish with a nail hardener base until your nails begin to take shape. Then you can go wild with color.

League Offers Booklet

The duties and responsibilities of all public offices in Sedalia and Pettis County are examined and explained in a booklet distributed this week by the local League of Women Voters.

The 37-page booklet outlines each official's capacity as well as the ways citizens may deal with problems through an official.

Titled "Know Your Local Government," the pamphlet was a four year project begun under the guidance of former president, Mrs. Robert Edmonds, and former vice president, Mrs. James Burkholder. League members interviewed incumbents in city and county offices, as well as those holding positions responsible for the operation of public schools and representatives of the major political parties. The survey concludes with clarification of practices for individual voter participation.

Preparation of the book was begun two years ago by League members, Mrs. Fred Davis, Mrs. Claude Lambirth, and Mrs. Elmer VanDyke. Factual information was documented by the interviewed officials prior to final publication.

The booklets will be placed in the public libraries, the public schools and may be obtained from the Chamber of Commerce or through the League of Women Voters office, (826-4051), according to Mrs. Richard Middleton, president.

You can retain the shape of knitted garments by folding them and keeping them on a shelf or in a drawer.

Making Sense of Scents

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

Some day we may be classified by our "odor prints" observes perfume chemist Art Lorenson, one of the well-known "noses" of the industry.

Scientists are at work on that theory, and their research may even show whether people are attracted to each other by scents. It may clear up also the mystery of why one perfume may survive for a half-century, and the popularity of another fade in a short time.

"The Illinois Institute of Technology is evolving the odor print theory but many new ideas are coming out of the study. These even include lures for insects and fish," he explained, adding that work is being done on the effects of scented attractants on men and women.

It is known one person may enhance a particular perfume more than another might, and this may have something to do with one's own built-in chemistry additive. The idea isn't new. The ancient Greeks believed that people's own odors shouldn't be improved upon, Lorenson points out. Ancient tribes rubbed noses (and still do) which may have been a ceremony in the interest of personal research.

Tests have shown men and women have different odor acceptance levels. At certain times women are greatly susceptible to musk, an ingredient of many perfumes, a finding that has led many experts to suspect a relationship between musk and trogen, a hormone.

Women can smell one part in a billion of musk, whereas men can hardly smell it.

Lorenson works with more than 3,000 scents in his Boston laboratory as chief perfumer for Gillette's toiletries division. The biggest challenge to all perfume chemists is trying to find that elusive combination of essential oils and other ingredients that will give a scented product special appeal, he explained. In formulating products for men, one must be particularly aware of the degree of scent.

"Five years ago scents for men were too strong. Essential oils in men's colognes have been reduced from about 6 to 3 ounces in a gallon of alcohol. In shaving lotion there now are only about one and a half ounces of oil to a gallon of alcohol. Vanilla, a sweetener, has been taken out of men's scents. They like clean, spicy or lemony odors."

Ann Landers

Saddened by Hate
Shown by Teens

Dear Ann Landers: When I was nine years old I lost my father in a truck accident and now I am 16. After the accident my cousin told me I was lucky — that she hated her dad and wished it had been him. I told her if she ever said that to me again I'd sock her.

When I hear kids at school say they hate their parents, it makes me sick. They don't know what they are saying. Sure, all families have disagreements and people get mad, but I can't imagine holding grudges and not being able to forgive each other.

I hope you will print my letter soon, Ann. It seems there is a lot more hate for older people today than there used to be. Or am I wrong? — Quincy Teen

Dear Q.: I don't know if there is more hate for older people than there used to be, but kids are more outspoken about their feelings. Every day I receive at least a dozen letters from teenagers who say they hate their mother or father — or both. I view this as a tragedy not only because the kids suffer, but their parents as well.

The best course of action is to try to re-establish communication at the point where it broke down. Sometimes the whole family must get counseling in order to accomplish this. If certain members refuse, the ones who recognize the need should go regardless.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is having an affair with his secretary. This has been going on for over a year, but I've been looking the other way. I hope it would wear itself out. I see nothing to be gained by confronting him, nor do I have any intention of asking him to make a choice.

Two weeks ago the secretary's 14-year-old son heard about the affair and told our 15-year-old son who promptly told his grandmother.

Now my mother-in-law is pressuring me to telephone the secretary and insist that she resign from her job. I believe this would be humiliating to my husband and place me in the position of having to "take steps" should she refuse. My mother-in-law also wants me to sit down with the two boys and explain the situation "objectively."

I've shed a bucket of tears over this mess and am confused and sick at heart. Advise me, please. — Insomnia in Idaho

Dear Ida: You've already had too much advice. All bad. Don't telephone the secretary. Don't have any summit meetings with the children. Hold your head up. Issue no ultimatums. If your mother-in-law continues to harangue you, tell her to butt out.

Dear Ann Landers: I hope it's not too late to put in my two cents worth for the mother with the two beautiful daughters who sat home a lot because they were too tall for most guys. I know who wrote that letter and I'd like to remind her of the time I arrived at the house and she told me in very plain language she would not allow her daughter to be seen with a long-haired gorilla. Then she shut the door in my face.

The girl was nice and fairly attractive, but her mother's mouth was her downfall. I never called her again. What do you think of a 17-year-old who would let her mother make such decisions for her? — 6'2"

In Alabama
Dear 6'2": I'm not sure the girl "let" her. It sounds as if mama is the take-over type and she took over. I feel sorry for her daughter.

Political Network
Bonanza

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Three Democrats running for the presidential nomination received bonanzas of free time on the three national networks Sunday. It was the result of a U.S. Court of Appeals ruling in an action brought by Rep. Shirley Chisholm, seeking equal time to match that received in the Humphrey-McGovern confrontations of the past week.

ABC, set to hold the third and last of the Hubert Humphrey-George McGovern interviews, complied with the ruling by opening its hour-long edition of "Issues and Answers" to include Mrs. Chisholm, Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty and Gen. Taylor Hardin, representing the hospitalized Gov. George C. Wallace.

Immediately following that program, NBC presented taped statements by Yorty and Mrs. Chisholm, both designed to make up for its "Meet the Press" program with Humphrey and McGovern last week. Then CBS pre-empted "60 Minutes" without advance notice and for a half hour gave Mrs. Chisholm time which she filled by being questioned by a panel of New York newsmen. This was to compensate for last Sunday's "Face the Nation" with Humphrey and McGovern.

There were so many people to be questioned in turn on the same subject during "Issues and Answers" that there was little time for complete answers. Little new developed and the hour was neither good television nor politicking.

Debates and heated exchanges between candidates are certainly more stimulating than on-camera speeches. From the standpoint of the viewer, however, the best format of all is having one person at a time submit to questions by knowledgeable reporters.

The court decision requiring equal time even on news department programs such as "Meet the Press" will further complicate the confused television coverage of national politics.

Thunderbird Mishap

A pilot on the Air Force's famed Thunderbird precision flying team lost control of his jet and died after bailing out Sunday in the last air show at Transpo '72. It was the third fatal accident of the nine-day international transportation fair at Dulles International Airport in Virginia. Here a rescue squad passes between rows of aircraft on display enroute to the crash site.

Transpo '72 Notes Another Death

WASHINGTON (AP) — A member of the Air Force's precision flying team, the Thunderbirds, has died in a fiery crash while performing for tens of thousands on the last day of the Transpo '72 exhibition.

The crash Sunday was the third fatal accident to mar the huge exhibit of air and ground transport systems at Dulles International Airport in the Virginia countryside outside Washington.

The pilot was identified as Maj. Joe Howard, 32, of Afton, N.C., a veteran of 322 combat missions in Southeast Asia including 69 over North Vietnam.

The team's five supersonic Phantom II jets were performing an exit maneuver when Howard's plane developed trouble at an altitude of 500 to 700 feet, officials said.

The swept-wing plane which can fly more than twice the speed of sound appeared to stop in midair, then rolled and drifted to the left. Moments before the plane struck ground, Howard's parachute appeared.

The $2.5 million plane exploded in a huge fireball and sent up a column of smoke. The heat was believed to have sucked the parachute into the blaze.

An Air Force spokesman said the crash's cause was not known and a board of officers would investigate.

On Saturday, the pilot of a small racing plane died after his craft and another hit during an air race. And, last Monday, a man fell to his death after losing control of a kite being launched by a car.

Despite Sunday's crash, the final day's events ran their course. Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe said he has been asked by exhibitors about another giant exhibition in 1974. Officials estimated that more than 14 million persons visited the exhibit, with the largest daily total—224,000—on the final day.

All comments about Transpo '72 were not favorable.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., has called Transpo '72 a poorly planned waste of the $5 million in tax money spent for the exhibition.

Candidate Aided
By Picnic Scheme

TROY, Ill. (AP) — Lt. Gov. Paul Simon will be the beneficiary of a fund-raising picnic to be held on the grounds of his home here Saturday designed to pay off $117,000 in primary campaign debts.

Tickets for the event are $10. Simon was defeated in his bid for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination by Daniel Walker on March 21.

through doctors, relatives and social agencies. Pearson estimates his fight has cost him personally some $20,000, but he plans an even larger investment—a $200,000 home accommodating 100 women. It will include recreation rooms and facilities for developing such skills as typing and shorthand, as well as academic training. "We want to help them get back on their feet," he said.

At the home, which now can handle 20 girls, Pearson provides a full-time nurse.

Of the 80 women ranging in age from 14 to 36 who have lived with them, Pearson says only one has decided to go through with an abortion, a decision he says is left up to each girl.

About 10 per cent of the girls keep their babies, while the others put them up for adoption, Pearson said. Sandra is in the latter group and plans to return alone to her mother and stepfather after having her baby.

'Antiabortion' Home
Is Hawaiian Answer

HONOLULU (AP) — Sandra is a pretty, petite 15-year-old brunette with soft brown eyes and hair that flows over her shoulders to her waist.

She lives in a five-bedroom, ocean-front house on nearby Maui Island where she spends her time swimming, camping and studying such school subjects as mathematics and sociology.

Her doctor says she can expect her baby July 9.

"You get pregnant and everybody thinks of you in a different way—like you're dirty," Sandra—not her real name—said in an interview.

"My mother told me to have an abortion. The hospital told me to have an abortion. But I didn't want to kill my baby."

For saving her baby, Sandra credits the family of Robert J. Pearson, a building contractor who lost his antiabortion fight in the state legislature when Hawaii became the first state to make abortion legal and available practically on request.

In the first year after the law went into effect March 13, 1970, there were 3,643 abortions in Hawaii, and, unlike in New York, there is no substantial movement here to repeal the law.

But Pearson has continued his fight by inviting women contemplating abortion to travel to live and continue their educations at his 4½-acre residence until they have their babies—all at no expense. Pearson and the antiabortion foundation he incorporated even pay for prenatal and delivery expenses.

"There are no obligations, no strings attached. We just want to show the girls there are alternatives to having abortion," Pearson said, adding that the women learn of his home

Psoriasis Cause
Not Understood

Dear Dr. Lamb — Will you please discuss psoriasis in your column. I have what I think is psoriasis on my hand. What causes psoriasis and is there any permanent cure? If not, what is the best way to control it?

Dear Reader — Psoriasis is a common skin disease that usually causes rounded or oval red raised spots on the skin. These reddened areas are covered with silvery, scaly material. It is not contagious but tends to occur in families. More than eight million people in the United States and Canada are afflicted with this problem.

The cause of psoriasis is not known. This is part of the problem in treating the disorder. The rounded lesions most commonly appear on the parts of the body that are not normally exposed to the sun. Thus, the face and hands usually escape, although psoriasis of hands does occur.

Because there are so many skin diseases that resemble each other, it is not possible to give a distinct description of most skin defects. They have to be learned by recognizing them, much as the birdwatcher learns to recognize different birds by seeing them. There are several different types of psoriasis, but most commonly, they are not life threatening. The appearance of the lesions is the greatest source of their aggravation. Some of them have sticky surfaces and there is difficulty with clothing, and itching is usually the exception rather than the rule.

Psoriasis usually occurs in young and middle-aged people. It seldom occurs in older people and tends to disappear with age. Many of its characteristics are exactly opposite of the usual lesions seen on the hand and face with age. The later are caused by exposure to the sun and wind, whereas psoriasis more commonly occurs on the surfaces of the body not exposed to sun.

Because so many people have this problem, numerous therapies have been tried. Things which are successful in one patient, like antihistamines, will not be useful in another patient. Currently, one drug, Methotrexate, is being used by a number of skin specialists. This medicine is more commonly used in treatment of leukemia, not psoriasis. There is considerable difference of opinion about its use in treatment of psoriasis and in the past it has been banned by the Food and Drug Administration because of reported toxic reactions. Many of the other treatments used for psoriasis are directed towards keeping the scaly scab soft, hence a variety of ointments are used.

Strangely enough, natural sunlight on the skin seems to help a great deal, although great care must be taken to avoid sunburn in these individuals. An ultra-violet lamp doesn't seem to help.

There needs to be a great deal more research done on the problems of psoriasis and since there are so many individuals with this problem, an organization has been formed called the National Psoriasis Foundation. It provides literature for people with this problem, and is supporting programs to stimulate research. Individuals who are interested in obtaining information from them should write to: National Psoriasis Foundation, Suite 250, 6415 S. W. Canyon Court, Portland, Oregon 97221.

Computer
Mistake
A Break

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — When a computer goof enrolled Harold Jones in an all-girl stenography class in high school, he made the best of it, scored an "A" and today is the only male stenographer for the California Legislature.

"He does a beautiful job," reports Madge Alberti, boss of the Assembly steno pool of 15 secretaries, all women until now. "He's very fast. He has a very pleasant personality. The girls just love him."

The computer foul-up occurred when Jones was 16 years old and a star hurdler on the Sacramento High School track team.

Passers-by do a double take when they see the lanky young man with a modish Afro and stylish bell bottom trousers at work in a sea of femininity.

"It's fun because there are a lot of girls," says Jones, admitting at the same time that he misses some masculine company.

Jones types 78 words per minute and takes dictation at 130 words per minute on a stenography machine.

"At first it was kind of tough because they were all watching me to see how I would do," he added. But once he proved he was a top-grade secretary, "the gossip just keeps on. You get to hear all their problems. And, like, if they buy cologne they've got to try it out on you. They pamper you sometimes."

"No reason a guy shouldn't be hired as a secretary, just because he's a guy," said John Burton, D-San Francisco, the assemblyman who was instrumental in getting Jones the $505-a-month job. "He's a qualified secretary."

Stamp Tax Situation Clears Up

City Clerk Ralph Dedrick, Monday termed the recent selling of cigarette packages not bearing a city tax stamp as "unintentional" on the part of merchants involved.

He explained the unstamped cigarettes were delivered to Sedalia merchants by Wetterau Foods Co., Mexico, whose automatic meter, which marks cigarette packages with both state and city tax stamps, recently broke down. Its replacement printed only the state and not the local tax stamp, Dedrick said. The company failed to notify delivery drivers and city officials of the change, he added.

The city collects the city sales tax from wholesalers, City License Inspector Bob Brown said. The firms buy the 4-cent stamps from the city and pass the cost on to retailers who in turn include it in their store price. He indicated that, to his knowledge, no un-stamped cigarette packages were being "smuggled" in.

Revenue from the local cigarette tax yielded $84,680.55 last year and has provided $26,107.20 during the first three months of 1972, Dedrick reported.

Brown indicated Sedalia merchants discovered to be unknowingly violating the city ordinance have been cooperative during the investigation of the discrepancy. He declined to specify the businesses saying he felt because the selling was accidental, no stores should be singled out.

"They (the stores) have all been most helpful," Brown said. "The situation is pretty well cleared up by now."

At least ten local firms were involved in the recent selling, which is in violation of a city regulation requiring every cigarette package sold in Sedalia to bear a city stamp representing a 4-cent payment.

Neither Brown nor Dedrick had been able to determine as of Monday how much revenue was lost by the city through the sales.

Thefts, Break-ins Reported

James W. Bryden, 521 West Seventh, reported his office at 520 West Broadway was ransacked Saturday night. According to police reports, nothing was apparently taken from the office. Police said a window was broken to gain entry.

Nathan Brown, 401 East Boonville, reported a car radio valued at $65 was taken from his car Saturday night while parked on a lot in the 200 block of West Main.

Lloyd R. Farris, owner of a car wash at 1703 West 16th, reported an automatic soap dispenser valued at $79 was stolen late Sunday afternoon.

Lindy Tarwater, 2510 Albert Lee, reported vandals broke a storm window valued at $12 Sunday morning at his residence.

Arthur Bethke, city sanitation officer, reported a cigarette machine and a candy machine were pried open Sunday at the city garage, 901 East Third. According to police reports, an unknown amount of change was taken. Police reported a window on the northeast corner of the building was broken to gain entry.

Delinquency Topic For KBLEAC

(Democrat-Capital Service)

CLINTON — Juvenile delinquency prevention and detection was the main topic of discussion at the monthly meeting of the Kaysinger Basin Law Enforcement Assistance Council held here last week.

John Bush, executive director of the Interchurch Coordinating Council, along with Dr. Herndon Snider and Larry Burrows, both of the Ozarks Mental Health Center, Joplin, presented a tentative program to the KBLEAC to help alleviate juvenile delinquency in the area.

Bush explained a recent ICC counseling survey conducted in the KBLEAC area which includes Bates, Benton, Cedar, Henry, Hickory, St. Clair and Vernon Counties. He reported that law enforcement personnel surveyed said they needed low-cost diagnostic and treatment services and available consultation and educational services to understand the delinquency problem. Bush said the ICC is attempting to create a regional service to provide such facilities.

A request from the ICC task force for a $5,000 one-year grant to implement the program was tabled until the next meeting.

Ed Elmore, park manager of the Truman Dam and Reservoir area for the Army Corps of Engineers, was voted an ex-officio member of the KBLEAC.

It was reported that applications are still being received for the position of Kaysinger Basin Law Enforcement Coordinator.

Angela Davis, right, and her mother Sallye, grasp each other in an embrace after her acquittal of all charges against her by a jury in San Francisco Sunday. (UPI)

Davis Acquitted Of All Charges

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — The jurors who acquitted Angela Davis on murder-kidnap-conspiracy charges had no major disagreements on her innocence from the start of their deliberations, the forewoman said.

Mary Timothy revealed the lack of discord while attending a festive party celebrating Sunday's verdict. A Mexican-American on the jury said he related to defense arguments about the persecution of blacks.

Another source said the all-white jury voted at least three times before handing in its verdict. On the first ballot, taken Friday afternoon shortly after they began deliberating, the jurors voted nine for acquittal and three undecided. There were no votes for conviction during the balloting, the source said.

Hysterical sobs of joy intermingled with shrieks of happiness in the courtroom when the verdict was returned.

Miss Davis wept quietly, tears streaming down her cheeks.

She was found innocent of engineering the bloody Aug. 7, 1970, Marin County courthouse escape attempt in which a judge, two convicts and their accomplice were slain. She had spent 16 months in jail before she was freed on $102,500 bail five days before the trial began Feb. 28.

The tall, black Communist hugged and kissed members of the seven-woman, five-man jury when they met for the first time at a news conference shortly after the verdict was announced.

"This is the happiest day of my life," she told a crowd of 300 supporters outside the courthouse who had been chanting: "The power of the people—it set Angela free."

The jubilant Miss Davis declared the acquittal "a people's victory"—not a triumph for American justice.

At a private post-verdict party, the lone Mexican-American on the jury, Louis Franco, told attorneys he was moved by the defense's final arguments, which centered on persecution of blacks in America for centuries.

Franco said he related it to the problems of Mexican-Americans.

Prosecutor Albert Harris Jr., an assistant state attorney general, declined comment on the verdict.

During the private celebration at the home of friends here, Miss Davis toasted her acquittal and the jurors with champagne.

All but three of the jury members showed up at the private party, and Miss Davis told The Associated Press that the jurors received her warmly and brought along their husbands and wives to meet her.

The verdict climaxed one of the longest, costliest and most controversial criminal proceedings in California history.

Miss Davis said she had not changed her bitter feelings about American justice, commenting: "The very fact of an acquittal means that there was no fair trial—because a fair trial would have been no trial at all." She said the state had no case against her.

It took the jury 13 hours to reach a verdict after a 13-week trial. The prosecution put 95 witnesses on the stand and introduced 201 exhibits in its seven-week presentation. The defense put 12 witnesses on the stand in its three-day "abbreviated case."

Mrs. Timothy, a women's lib fan who wrote after her name on some of the verdict forms "F.O.R.M.s," refused to discuss the jury's thinking in reaching the verdict. She explained this might have an effect on the upcoming trial of convict Russell Magee, who was indicted on the same charges as Miss Davis.

During seven weeks of testimony, the prosecution tried to prove that Miss Davis was driven by passionate love for convict-author George Jackson to engage in a conspiracy to free him and that she plotted with George's brother, Jonathan, 17, toward that end.

But the plans went awry, the prosecutor said, and violent death was the result for Jonathan, convicts James McClain, 37, and William Christmas, 27, and Superior Court Judge Harold Haley. Magee was wounded.

Four guns found in the van in which the escape was to be made were registered to Miss Davis. She had vanished, and on Aug. 18 she was placed on the FBI's list of 10 most-wanted criminals. On Oct. 13, she was arrested in a downtown New York hotel.

State Extension Director

Mowing grass too short is probably responsible for more lawn failures than any other single practice.

Scalping a bluegrass lawn weakens the root system. Result is a thin stand of grass, which paves the way for an invasion of weeds. Also, a closely mowed lawn will be more susceptible to injury from drought, insects and diseases, especially during hot summer months.

Bluegrass lawns should be cut at least two inches high throughout the growing season. A 2½ to 3 inch height through the summer is even better and is in itself an excellent crabgrass control.

Frequent mowing helps give a lawn a neat appearance. No more than one-third of the growth should be removed at one cutting.

If your grass gets quite long because your family is away on vacation, don't cut it back all at once. To reduce mowing shock, cut off a third of the growth, wait two days, then cut another third.

Renovate Strawberries

To renovate or re-new a strawberry bed, first mow old tops of plants. Set lawn mower high enough to remove strawberry leaves but not injure crowns. Apply five pounds of 5-10-5 fertilizer per 100 feet of row (10 pounds of sawdust is used as a mulch). Next, take a rototiller (or spade) and cut each plant row to a six-inch width. This sounds drastic but do it! Runner plants from the six-inch strip of "mother" plants will form a new matted row of plants. To be successful renovate as soon as harvest is finished. Apply about 1½ to 2 inches of water a week to the newly forming bed during June, July and August (include rainfall in total). This method of renovation can be used to fruit this "original" strawberry bed for a total of three to four years. Then establish a new bed.

Locust

These insects do not chew and will not damage flowers, vegetables or field crops. They may injure the twigs of woody plants when they lay their eggs. Fruit trees and woody ornamental plants may need to be protected from egg laying attack.

Some protection against the twig damage may be had by applying a spray of carbaryl (Sevin) to the plants every three to five days for a period of two to three weeks or until egg laying ceases. Highly prized ornamental shrubs can be covered with cheesecloth or mosquito netting to prevent egg laying and subsequent damage.

Pastures

The next 40 days — a usually dry and hot time — are critical for most pastures and hay fields. However, there are ways to offset summer stresses. Legumes must compete with the more vigorous grasses for essential nutrients, especially potassium. Therefore, heavy amounts of potash will help protect alfalfa and clover stands.

Deep rooted legumes take up top dressed fertilizer almost instantly.

If soil test figures are not available at least 40 pounds of phosphate and 120 pounds of potash per acre. Apply immediately after the first harvest or grazing. Adequate fertilizer even increases the efficiency of water use by plants.

Pasture and hay fields composed mainly of grass can use 40 to 50 pounds of top dressed nitrogen per acre in addition to phosphate and potash. However, summer response will not be as good as when legumes make up part of the stand.

Basements

Dry basements provide good economical space for many enjoyable family activities. Damp basements are a mess. And they provide little in the way of usefulness.

Almost all basement walls will crack to some degree. Even properly built and reinforced walls will develop hair line cracks. But these will not normally cause a problem if there is a drain tile around the footing and the dirt is sloped away from the house.

Where hair line cracks exist, a cement based paint will normally close the leak at least temporarily. These can be applied to the wall with a scrub brush and are relatively inexpensive.

Where larger cracks are present, it's a little more difficult. If the crack is close to one-half inch wide or larger, it is best to "V" it out to where it is about 1" wide and 1" deep. Then brush it with a mixture of portland cement and water of a creamy consistency. Then fill the crack with one to two mixtures of cement and sand.

It is important to make these repairs when there is no water coming through the crack. This means that summer will probably be the best time for it.

There is no assurance that these larger cracks won't reopen when the basement walls settle or shift a little more. Contrary to popular belief, extended dry weather is much harder on basements and foundations than is wet weather. During extended dry spells, the subsoil dries and shrinks away from your foundation and footings and settling can result. Then when it gets wet again, you notice the damage when it begins to leak.

Drain tile around the footing will be extremely helpful in minimizing leaks. This is cheap and easy to do during construction. The tile should be covered with inch to inch and one-half screened gravel to a depth of several inches. It's an expensive and troublesome job to place a drain tile around an existing basement. But sometimes this is the only way you can relieve enough water pressure against a basement wall to stop the leakage.

Relief of dampness and holds in your basement can best be done with a dehumidifier. Molds often develop, even in a basement that doesn't have water seeping through the floor or walls. This is because of the cooler temperature and higher relative humidity. A dehumidifier can lower the relative humidity and eliminate this problem. One word of caution though on using dehumidifiers. All doors and windows to the basement must be kept closed for the dehumidifier to work properly.

The dehumidifier will remove the water from the air where it can be drained off through the basement drain. But if the doors and windows are left open moist air replaces the drier air and the dehumidifier works overtime and still doesn't do the job. Usually, there is no need for a dehumidifier in the winter months.

Webworms

Sod webworms moths will soon be flying. These are buff colored moths, flying over lawns. As the moth flies a zig-zag pattern just above the lawn, egg laying is taking place. After noticing large numbers of moths, he had better plan to treat his lawn about 2 weeks later. There will be a second generation of moths in July and a third during late August or early September. Spraying to kill the moths just doesn't work, but control of the larvae which causes the lawn damage will.

Hijacker Waits For His Hearing

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — William Hahneman, a middle-aged engineer charged with a $303,000 international skyjack, sat in a Dade County jail cell awaiting a removal hearing today.

Federal authorities said they wanted to remove the graying, 49-year-old man to Alexandria, Va.

Hahneman had turned himself in to U.S. embassy officials in Honduras.

He is charged in connection with the May 5 hijack of an Eastern jetliner over Pennsylvania that picked up $303,000 ransom at Washington's Dulles International Airport before heading for Central America.

The man who collected the ransom parachuted over Honduras, authorities said.

John Banks, 58, Tammis, Ill., in a head-on collision east of Wyatt on U.S. 60.

Cecil Hicks, 23, Fairgrove, Mo., when his car crashed into a bull on a county road six miles north of Springfield.

Chester Ray, 27, Dawn, Mo., in a one-car accident three miles north of Luclow.

Killed in Friday accidents, James Swope, 60, St. Louis, when struck by a hit-and-run auto in St. Louis.

Mrs. Florence Staubus, 77, Marceline, Mo., in a two-car collision near Mendon.

Truck Operators Observe 'Rodeo'

SALINA, Kan. (AP) — Drivers from Kansas City captured top honors Saturday in the fourth annual Kansas-Missouri Rodeo at the Salina Municipal Airport.

Donald B. Sobba of Consolidated Freightways for Kansas, and Muriel Bachman of Chicago-Kansas City Freight Lines for Missouri were named over-all champions as winners of the three-axle division.

Their employers also took the team championships. Consolidated Freightways for Kansas and Chicago-Kansas City Freight Lines for Missouri.

The competition included several phases of maneuvering different sizes and combinations of truck and trailer rigs. It was sponsored by the safety councils of the Kansas Motor Carriers Association and the Missouri Bus and Truck Association.

The state champions will compete in the National Rodeo in Louisville, Ky., this fall.

Treatment Plant Employees Return

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Employees began returning to work at the Metropolitan Waste Water Treatment Plant at 11 p.m. Sunday, following a week-end during which some 160 million gallons of partially treated sewage flowed into the Mississippi River.

The sewage was discharged after between 18 and 20 of the 25 treatment plant employees called in sick and failed to report for work.

A spokesman at the plant said sewage treatment would be increased gradually and could be back to normal by this morning.

The Metropolitan Sewer Board and the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency have recommended that persons stay out of the river until full treatment can be restored at the plant.

The plant serves Minneapolis, St. Paul and surrounding suburbs.

Russell E. Frazier, chief of the State Health Department's analytical services section, said the danger "should be relatively slight, because there is no drinking water taken directly from the river without treatment."

A plant official said most of the employees who were scheduled to work from 11 p.m. Saturday to 7 a.m. Sunday called in sick and failed to show up. They are members of Local 34.

Hijack Ransom Return Sought

ALGIERS (AP) — The United States is trying to get the Algerian government to return the $500,000 in ransom given to the American who hijacked a Western Airlines jetliner to Algiers over the weekend.

The United States has asked for the money, and "we're still trying," a State Department spokesman in Washington said Sunday.

The hijacker, a black identified as William Holder, 24, seized one of the line's smaller jetliners Saturday during a flight from Los Angeles to Seattle.

Holder was accompanied by a blonde girl identified as Mary Karkow, 20. They reportedly said they belong to the Black Panthers.

Holder asked for political asylum, and sources said President Houari Moumiedienne would personally decide whether to grant it.

The hijacker also said he was going to use the $500,000 ransom paid him "for a big cause." Capt. William E. Newell of San Francisco, co-pilot of the hijacked plane, told newsmen after returning the plane to Los Angeles Sunday.

Newell, 48, said he knew of no demand to free Angela Davis, the black Communist who was found innocent of murder, kidnap and conspiracy charges two days after the hijacking. The chief of security at Seattle-Tacoma Airport said Saturday the hijacker demanded Miss Davis freedom as part of his ransom package.

The union and the Sewer Board have been in contract negotiations since last December. They are scheduled to meet today with the State Mediation Service.

Iowa Teen-ager Drowns at Lake

BRANSON, Mo. (AP) — An Iowa teen-ager on an outing with a Future Farmers of America chapter drowned Sunday at nearby Table Rock Lake.

The youth was identified as Mark Spooner, 16, of Greenfield, Iowa.

Authorities said Spooner and three companions set out to swim across the lake. Spooner apparently developed cramps and went under. His friends were unable to locate him.

The body was recovered about three hours later.

Farm Roundup

Food For Peace Plan Dollars Falling Short

WASHINGTON (AP) — The dollar share of farm exports under Food for Peace programs fell last year to 13 per cent of the total, the lowest since 1954 when the popular aid program began, an Agriculture Department report said today.

Commodities sold under Food for Peace accounted for about $1 billion of the record $7.7 billion in U.S. farm exports during the calendar year, the Foreign Agricultural Service reported.

That was almost the dollar level of 1970 Food for Peace shipments, but far less than the peak of $1.62 billion exported under the aid program in 1964 at the height of its popularity.

Several reasons were cited for the downturn: some of the traditional big aid recipients such as India and Pakistan are producing more of their own grain and need fewer imports, a sharp rise in cash sales of commodities, and a transition of commercial-type credit arrangements.

A few years ago, huge quantities of surplus U.S. farm products, particularly wheat, were sold under long-term "soft" credit arrangements allowing payments in foreign currencies. Changes were made in the Food for Peace program when Congress extended it in 1970 for three years, including a phase-out of the local currency payments.

Except for special authority reserved for defense grants and other aid, the local currency payment method no longer is allowed generally in new agreements beginning this year.

The 13 per cent share of total U.S. farm exports last year was the smallest for Food for Peace since a four per cent ratio in 1954. That, however, was for only the first six months of the new program.

In the intervening 17 years, Food for Peace accounted for up to 30 per cent of all U.S. farm exports. In 1956 the entire value of commodity sales was $4.1 billion, little more than half the current farm export pace.

The Food for Peace plan is split into two basic operations. Title I which permits sales under credit arrangements, and Title II which allows U.S. commodities to be donated to needy countries.

Last year, the FAS report said, sales under Title I totaled $680 million, down from 1970, while Title II donations rose some, to about $291 million.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers who complain about food costs should take a look at the poultry and egg situation, according to figures compiled by the Agriculture Department.

Twenty years ago, frying chickens broilers cost about 60 cents per pound in retail stores.

Last year, the department says, the same type chickens cost consumers 41 cents a pound.

Eggs, which fluctuate greatly in price, averaged 53 cents per dozen for Grade A large last year, says the department. In 1953, the first year retail price averages were kept, similar eggs cost 70 cents.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wheat farmers in Argentina will get a boost in price supports from their government to an average of about $2.28 per bushel, up 20 per cent.

The Agriculture Department, which supports wheat grown by American farmers at a basic rate of $1.25 per bushel, said the increase allowed by the Argentine government "is designed to cover increased production costs and encourage wheat growing" in the 1972-73 season.

Queen Selected

Geraniums Most Popular Now

Geraniums are one of the most popular flowering plants for home grounds. With proper care, they provide a constant show from time of planting until frost kills them in the fall.

Several types of geraniums are available. Ivy-leaf, Martha Washington, Fancy-leaf, and Miniature are a few of the more unusual types.

The most popular and satisfactory type for planting in the garden is the Zonal or Florist's Geranium. It is available in several colors including white, pink, rose, red, scarlet, lavender, and cerise.

Success with geraniums is easy with proper location and summer care.

Geraniums need full sun, or at least six to eight hours of sunlight each day. Flowering is reduced in moderate shade. However, a few hours shade during the hottest part of the day in midsummer prevents rapid flower fading and collapse. Ivy-leaved geraniums tolerate shade better than the other types.

Geraniums must have good drainage. With it they have few problems. Without it they may become infected with stem or root rot that stunt or kill the plant.

Liberal quantities of organic matter added to the soil improve its structure, drainage, and aeration. Geraniums should not be planted in low spots where drainage is poor unless drainage can be improved or raised beds constructed.

Excess water may damage roots. However, watering is important during dry weather to produce vigorous, free blooming plants. While watering, avoid splashing the leaves or water when plant leaves dry rapidly. This is especially important during hot, humid weather.

The combination of heat and moisture favors growth of a disease called blossom blight or Botrytis.

It often starts on florets on the center flowers and spreads until the entire flower cluster is prematurely ruined. Blossom blight may also attack leaves and stems which remain shaded and constantly moist close to the soil.

Water only when needed; avoid frequent light waterings.

In damp, rainy periods, fungicides may be necessary to control the disease. Spraying or dusting plants with Captan or Botran will help reduce spread. A new fungicide, Benomyl, which has been effective for control of black spot on roses, will also control petal blight on geraniums.

Geraniums are heavy feeders. It may be necessary to fertilize them from time to time during the summer. If leaves become small and light green, a top dressing of fertilizer may be necessary. An all-purpose garden fertilizer applied lightly to the soil surface and scratched into the soil will be adequate.

A mulch of organic materials around the plants will keep the soil cool, provide more uniform moisture to the roots, and hold down weeds. Mulch should be two to three inches thick.

Remove all dried and faded flower clusters as soon as possible. If allowed to remain they may be a source of disease infection or delay development of new flower buds.

North Viet Offensive Shifting Its Emphasis

QUE SON, Vietnam (AP) — The North Vietnamese offensive has been slowed at An Loc, Kontum and Hue. But in the Que Son valley south of Da Nang it moves relentlessly forward, and the South Vietnamese are still losing fire bases and villages.

"We are balanced on the knife's blade," said the Que Son district chief, Maj. Nguyen Cong Chinh, as he described the methodical 56-day enemy push that has captured one neighboring district, threatens another, and has Que Son in a stranglehold.

Chinh and his four American advisers are spending increasingly more of their time in a deep command bunker hopefully safe from the rockets and mortars that often rain in from the nearby hills.

Two regiments from the South Vietnamese 2nd Infantry Division are deployed around them. But there is nervousness in the air, and a sense of impending doom.

"The big enemy push has not come yet," one of the American advisers said. "They are just biting small chunks out of us day by day. Much more of this and we'll fall apart."

The Que Son valley is 40 miles south of Da Nang. It runs from the mountains inland across Highway 1 almost to the South China Sea. Because it is a natural infiltration route into the highly populated coast, the Communists have made a major military push through this valley every year since 1964.

This year is the biggest push with three infantry regiments totaling around 2,500 men, and they have made the greatest gains.

"They came right around behind us," Chinh said. "Now at least 800 Communist troops have cut our only road to the coast. They are in bunkers 15 feet deep. Nothing of ours has moved along the road in two weeks."

An American adviser explained that the North Vietnamese were initially thought to be aiming at Route 1, which links Da Nang with the populous provinces south of it. But the enemy surprised everyone by suddenly cutting off Que Son at the valley entrance.

Allied with the push through Hiep Duc to Que Son has been a parallel enemy thrust into Thanh Binh district adjoining Que Son to the south.

The fighting has not been one-sided. Maj. Chinh's militia forces in Que Son have been giving a superb account, according to American advisers, and have killed many North Vietnamese.

But there are no illusions about the militiamen's lasting power.

"Let's face it, the North Vietnamese have the power to overwhelm us any time they like unless we get a lot of help," Maj. Chinh said.

Approval Is Predicted For Big Education Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A chief House sponsor of the Senate-passed $21.3-billion education bill predicts the massive measure with its restrictive busing provisions will be passed by the House this week.

The vote is scheduled for Thursday and although Rep. Albert H. Quie, R-Minn., thinks it will be close, he said he expects the House to send the bill to President Nixon.

The bill would combine the most-stringent limits Congress has ever placed on busing for the purpose of school desegregation with federal support for a wide range of education programs.

There is little opposition to the education provisions but the restrictions on busing have united backers and opponents of busing against the bill.

One group says the restrictions would slow desegregation:

the other contends they are not severe enough.

The chief antibusing provision in the bill would postpone federal-court desegregation orders until all appeals have been exhausted, or until Jan. 1, 1974, when the legislation would lapse.

Two other provisions restricting use of federal and state funds for busing were much stronger when passed by the House originally, but were softened in the House-Senate compromise that is now up for a vote.

Quie, the most influential House Republican on education legislation, said he expects the White House and House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford to support the bill, although they remain noncommittal.

Passage of the antibusing provisions in the bill would dim prospects for congressional action this year on Nixon's proposals.

Quie introduced a new version of the Nixon bill last week that would eliminate a provision for special financial aid to inner-city schools as an alternative to desegregating.

Quie's bill would leave only the antibusing features of the administration measure, which prohibit busing to desegregate elementary schools and permit it only as a last resort at any other grade level after all approaches to desegregation have been tried.

Kansas Mishaps Fatal For Five

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Weekend traffic accidents claimed at least five lives in Kansas. A six-year-old Wichita boy, Wyatt Van Der Slice, died shortly after he was struck by a car as he walked away from an ice cream truck near his home Saturday night.

Two Topeka residents were killed Saturday in a car that skidded off a ramp of Interstate 70 and overturned at the west edge of Topeka. They were identified as Eunice M. Jones, 38, and her brother, Lawrence Raymond Belaire, 30, formerly of Mayetta, Kan.

Another Interstate 70 accident Saturday claimed the life of 25-year-old David H. Kelly of Westport, Conn. He was riding with Joyce E. Fay, 25, of Wauwatosa, Wis., who was injured. The two-car accident occurred about 23 miles east of Junction City.

Antonio O. Ramos, 26, Lawrence, Kan., died early Saturday in Kansas City, Kansas, when his car missed a curve and overturned and caught fire.

Aspirin By Another Name the Same

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP) — There's an old story about the man who goes into a drugstore and asks for acetylsalicylic acid. "You mean aspirin?" the druggist responds. "Never can remember that name," the customer observes.

Pakistan plans to put a reverse twist on that by banning the manufacture and sale of medicines under familiar brand names. The Pakistanis want a headache would ask for acetylsalicylic acid. Attacked by what is known on the subcontinent as "Delhi belly," he would call—if there was time—for iodochlorhydroquin.

These are generic names, the labels scientists put on the drugs. According to manufacturers here, Pakistan would become the first country to ban completely the making and the selling of drugs under brand names. Some consumer advocates in the United States have suggested similar action there.

Manufacturers with subsidiaries in Pakistan have threatened to close unless they can use brand names they have pushed.

Sheik Mohammed Rashid, a Lahore lawyer who is health minister, said the government will not back down despite what he calls the pressure of "vested interests...coming out with flimsy pretenses...in a futile attempt to perpetuate the exploitation of the consumer in which they have freely indulged so far."

Sheik Rashid said some drugs were sold up to 30 times more cheaply as generics than the same items under trade names. According to a list he provided, branded aspirin at $5 for 1,000 tablets was priced at 61 cents per 1,000, generic, Branded Vitamin C cost $14 per 1,000, generic vitamins $3.20 for the same amount. He said a tranquilizer at $30 for 1,000 capsules sold for $2 in its generic form.

Makers said some of the prices were higher because items sell in small lots.

Rashid predicted that in the long run cheaper prices will boost companies' business fivefold. According to industry sources, more than 85 per cent of Pakistan's 55 million people are too poor to buy drugs; the room for expansion is vast, they admit.

Mideast 'Anniversary' Reveals Small Changes

CAIRO (AP) — The fifth anniversary Monday of the start of the last Arab-Israeli war finds Israeli troops still occupying the east bank of the Suez Canal and the Egyptians saddened, frustrated, embarrassed and angry.

"Where is the family that has not lost a son on the hot desert sand or has not dispatched one of its children to discharge his national duties," wrote chief editor Moussa Sabry in the newspaper Al Akhbar.

The Star of David flag is clearly visible from the Egyptian positions at Port Tewfik, at the southern end of the canal. Nearby U.N. observers, bare chested in the heat with blue baseball caps on their heads, maintain a quiet watch.

The possibility of a new conflict, shattering the cease-fire of August 1970, is stronger today than it was a year ago, when Egypt pinned its hopes on Washington after Secretary of State William P. Rogers visited Cairo.

Rogers supported President Anwar Sadat's proposal to reopen the canal in exchange for a substantial Israeli pullback and a promise to withdraw eventually from all occupied territory. But the Israelis dug in, refusing to give up their chief bargaining card, and air conditioned their bunkers on Egyptian soil.

The Arabs lost faith in the Egyptians.

Egyptians, officially and privately, agree they would prefer a peaceful solution to losing more of their fathers, husbands, sons and brothers in another desert war. But they cannot tolerate the idea of making peace while a third of their country is occupied. An official of the Foreign Ministry commented recently:

"If the Americans were unable to withdraw from South Vietnam for so many years because it would have been difficult for Washington to explain the move to the thousands of families who lost their men in that far off land, how can they expect us to make peace when so many of our men died fighting Israel and she still occupies our territory?"

President Anwar Sadat has repeatedly refused to sit down with the Israelis to talk peace while their soldiers are on Egyptian soil. He argues that such a meeting would be tantamount to surrender.

Sadat expressed his anger at Washington's continuing to arm Israel by ordering the U.S. diplomatic mission in Cairo reduced by half.

The Egyptians are fed up with the continuing state of no war and no peace.

One paper observed:

"Thus the Middle East crisis, after five years, still remains pulsating with danger, threatening to explode at any moment, at a time Israel and its supporters had thought the crisis had abated and was well on its way to being forgotten."

Lions, camels, elephants, and 12-foot-high mammoths roamed Alaska 12,000 years ago, National Geographic says.

Bids Are Steep At Auto Auction

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP) — An Arkansas traveler has paid $26,000 for a used car, and a 16-year-old one at that.

Jess Odom's bid on a 1956 Rolls Royce Silver Wraith, once owned by British actor Laurence Harvey, was the highest of James C. Leake's rare auto auction conducted here Sunday. Leake, who owns television stations in Arkansas and Oklahoma, said it was the "top price paid in the U.S. for this body style Rolls."

Odom is the owner of Dogpatch, U.S.A. of Arkansas, and lives in Little Rock. He is opening an auto museum at Dogpatch and bought nine cars Sunday for a total of $59,550. He was the top spender.

But Odom said the rare Rolls may not always be in his museum. The car is in perfect condition and Odom intends to show it off.

Leake raised $363,182 from the sale of 74 of his autos in a seven-hour auction conducted by Sotheby, Parke-Bernet, of Los Angeles.

Edward Landrigan II, President of the firm and the auctioneer, said: "It was the largest most successful antique auto auction held in the United States and the largest ever by a single owner."

Leake's auto museum here can accommodate only 70 automobiles and he had 189 before the auction. Only three that he placed for sale did not draw bids.

Odom was in earnest about his new auto museum at Dogpatch. He dove into the bidding on an immaculate 1938 Packard limousine and said—at the beginning $1,000 bid made by a competitor—"let's get serious. I'll make it $5,000."

And he bought it at $9,750.

Odom also paid $3,800 for a huge 1955 double-decker bus from England. He will use it to transport Dogpatch visitors around the grounds.

Another Arkansasian at the auction had a special mission. Mrs. Marie Williams, of North Little Rock, paid $9,500 for an impeccable blue-gray 1916 Bentley sedan and $8,570 for a well-maintained 1936 Rolls Royce.

The Bentley was purchased by Mrs. Williams for former Arkansas Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller. She got the Rolls for herself and will "take it home to my Rolls Royce Silver Cloud and my own Bentley."

Smokey Billue, a McPherson, Kan., auto museum owner, bought the most number of cars—11. He paid a total of $39,050.

One young man, identified by Leake's staff as one of Mexico's wealthiest, purchased three cars for $27,500. They will be taken to Mexico City on a railroad car he brought to Muskogee with him.

The young man, who refused to identify himself, got a 1935 Bentley touring car, a 1953 Mercedes Benz cabriolet and a 1953 Bentley drophead coupe.

About 2,000 attended the sale at Leake's Horseless Carriage Museum.

President Nixon's Fantastic Voyage

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

SCRABBLE, Va. — It is no bad thing to draw a perspective on the summit talks in Moscow from a field of hay in the Blue Ridge Mountains. From here the journey seems, in the deliberate choice of a shopworn word, fantastic.

This is such stuff as dreams are made on—imaginary figures, impossible events, a script as fragile as the blowing chaff. We see the faces on a television screen, Nixon smiling, Brezhnev smiling, but the images fade in and out. Cutting hay is dusty work; one looks for Moscow past the binder, dimly.

Fantastic is the word. On May 29, the news from Vietnam came on to this effect:

"United States Stratofortresses dropped 1,000 tons of bombs around Kontum today, in an effort to prevent Communist troops from reinforcing the provincial capital. North Vietnamese forces slammed 100 Soviet-supplied artillery shells into the city during the night. Meanwhile, south of An Loc, the Communist enemy blasted South Vietnamese troops with more than a thousand rounds of Russian-made missiles and mortar shells. Twenty-three armored personnel carriers, supplied to the South Vietnamese by the United States, were destroyed ..."

This was the same afternoon that Nixon and Brezhnev, at the Great Kremlin Palace, were dining in jovial spirits at "huge tables laden with caviar, smoked salmon, giant crab claws, and other food and drink." The two leaders jested with Times correspondent Max Frankel. Does the Times print the truth, asked Brezhnev? "Pravda," said the President, trying out his elementary Russian. "That means truth."

It is all mixed up. Half way around the world, in the bloody agony of war, one perceives a part of the truth of Soviet-American relations: the ruins of a Russian tank, the wreckage of a U.S. truck. Our allies demolish one another. At the same moment, there is something else: Our leaders demolish plates of caviar and salmon. Can this be truth as well?

The summit produced a joint communiqué that rambled on for some 2,000 words. The 2,000 words, in their way, are as real as these 2,000 bales of hay: real words. Somehow the hay seems better; it has an honest weight. The leaders are "guided by a desire to strengthen peaceful relations." They recognize "the need to remove the threat of war." There is no alternative, they have agreed, "to conducting their mutual relations on the basis of peaceful coexistence." And to demonstrate good faith, we will mine the harbor at Haiphong and they will have their missiles hurled upon An Loc.

How much is real? How much is make-believe? This much, I think, has substance: the fact of the trip; and the nature of the foe. The rest is mostly moonshine.

The President's two "journeys for peace," one to Peking, one to Moscow, now are facts of history. He seized the initiative; he took the risks; he went. And at least in the political view, for the short haul, this is likely to count for more than what he may have accomplished. Marco Polo went to the court of Kublai Khan, and Venice loved him for it. In our own political catechism, boldness remains a virtue.

There is this second fact: the nature of communism. Nothing in the record of recent years, nothing in the gaudy array of treaties, agreements and accords at Moscow, nothing at all suggests that talk of "peaceful coexistence" is anything more than talk. In one fashion or another, by whatever devices may seem most useful, the apostles of communism mean to dominate the world. Crab claws or guided missiles, it is all the same. And we had better not forget it.

Nixon is a realist. In the end, that characteristic becomes his greatest asset. He knows the Russians are not to be trusted, and they know he knows it. Thus his first commitment is to arms, his second to disarmament; it is the distinction between the means of grace and the hope of glory. Here is a grey-green haze, blood and caviar alike seem far away. They are parallel windrows on a field of history; endlessly we bind them up together, the strange, familiar harvest of a summer afternoon.

African Policy Wrong

WASHINGTON — Things have reached a pretty pathetic state when two former under secretaries of state, 12 former U.S. ambassadors to African countries and a former U.S. representative to the United Nations feel compelled to denounce their country's African policies.

But 15 former State Department officials did jointly assail the Nixon administration's policies recently, charging that they are morally wrong and "self-defeating in terms of the long-run interests of the United States."

Almost as shameful as the policies themselves is the fact that so few Americans care, with the exception of the 10,000 or so blacks who demonstrated here on African Liberation Day.

For Africa in general, the administration had adopted a policy originally recommended for American blacks: "benign neglect." In an era when China, Russia and Indochina demand priority attention, Latin America is back-burner, but black Africa might just as well not exist.

There is no brand of logic that explains this from a political standpoint — not when we note how the Soviet Union has displayed U.S. prestige and power in the Middle East and South Asia and stands to do the same thing in an Africa alienated by American stupidity and neglect. There is no explaining it in economic terms — not when we note the desperate state of the U.S. trade position in the world, or when we consider this country's dependency on raw resources from abroad, including Africa with its vast economic potential.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey says that "we find our own government backtracking on the cause of African liberation abroad and the cause of civil rights here at home. The two are interconnected, for ultimately an administration's foreign policy is an extension of its policies at home."

The feeling is widespread in the diplomatic corps that the administration is just as uncomfortable around, and indifferent to, blacks in Africa as blacks in this country, and that it harbors a deep emotional support for those whites who keep African majorities in bondage.

The 15 diplomats (they are blacks and whites who cover the broadest range of non-extremist political opinion in America) accused the administration of expanding contracts and communication with the apartheid government of South Africa in a way that "conveys a sense of collaboration."

They deplored "the use of U.S. government funds to spur trade with colonial Portugal," asserting that this policy will only retard the eventual independence of Africans in Angola, Mozambique and Guinea-Bissau.

Perhaps the most conscienceless aspect of U.S. policy relates to Rhodesia, that breakaway British colony where a relative handful of whites are trying to achieve independent status with the African majority left in political serfdom.

Britain has generally seemed economically weak, militarily impotent and politically sterile in dealing with this crisis, yet even her conservative government has shown a level of integrity far surpassing that of this government. While the British cling to economic sanctions that cost Britain dearly in their efforts to force Rhodesia's Ian Smith regime to make a reasonable compromise, the United States has decided to violate mandatory United Nations sanctions and purchase chrome from Rhodesia.

London's Daily Mirror said recently: "Any weakening of sanctions would be a shameful betrayal of the Africans ... It may be that Mr. Smith is so hell-bent on dragging Rhodesia into the full horrors of apartheid on the South African model that nothing will stop him. But if he has even a fragment of sanity left, effective sanctions could still pull him up."

But the Daily Telegraph argues that it is an "absurd situation in which Britain applies sanctions strictly — and suffers thereby — while most other countries ignore or circumvent them." Thus does a sleazy U.S. retreat from principle become one newspaper's reason why Britain ought to carry out a "shameful betrayal."

It is simple enough for the administration to continue to pursue its present policies toward Africa. If the Africans are offended and angry, the response can be: "Who needs them?" If blacks in America are infuriated, so what? The administration already has written them off politically.

McGovern's Reckless Defense Proposals

Sen. George McGovern is generally conceded to have the most radical platform of any candidate for president. His proposals for redistribution of wealth, greatly expanded welfare benefits and a $30 billion cut in defense spending are often cited as examples.

But you haven't heard anything yet. Consider another candidate's platform, which includes the following:

Padlock the Pentagon. Cancel all defense contracts. Close up the FBI, the CIA and all U.S. military bases. Immediately end U.S. participation in the Vietnam war. Declare racism a crime.

The candidate? Gus Hall, general secretary of the Communist Party in the United States—who is running for president.

Hall made his comments at a recent speaking engagement in Grand Rapids, Mich. However, the candidate it is not sure at this point whether he will qualify for a spot on the November ballot in Michigan.

Never one to fire the imagination of the voter, Hall is doing no better this election year than he has in past ones. But he does have the virtue of honesty. There is no mistaking what a vote for Gus Hall would mean for the future of the United States.

Less obvious is the danger inherent in McGovern's defense proposals, which would reduce U.S. forces to their lowest level since 1950. This would be a reckless and potentially disastrous course for the nation, in view of Soviet military capabilities and designs.

This, of course, wouldn't bother Gus Hall, who as a Communist is dedicated to the destruction of the American system and the triumph of Marxism.

But it should bother George McGovern, who is in a position to know better.

Merry-Go-Round

McClellan Embargo On Consumer Bill

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Grim, grumpy Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., has issued secret orders to one of his subcommittees to hold up action on the consumer protection bill until after the Arkansas primaries.

The redoubtable, 76-year-old crimebuster is fighting for his political life against a 37-year-old challenger, Rep. David Pryor, D-Ark. The campaign will have its high noon on June 13 when the pair will meet in a primary run-off.

Meanwhile, McClellan doesn't want to alienate Arkansas' consumers by voting against consumer protection. But he also can't afford to upset the business interests that have supported him for the past 30 years.

The old man himself is a stockholder and director of Little Rock's largest bank, First National, and the 23-store Dillard department store chain.

Indeed, the president of Dillard's Arkansas division, Ray Hemp, acknowledged to my associate, Les Whitten, that McClellan was selected as a Dillard director in 1969 because of his "influence."

While McClellan has been campaigning in Arkansas, the consumer protection bill has been gathering dust in the Senate Executive Reorganization subcommittee. The bill has been pushed by consumer advocate Ralph Nader who is seeking to establish federal advocates within the government to battle for the consumers.

On the House side, Rep. Chet Holifield, D-Calif., got into a verbal slug-out with Nader over the bill, but a watered-down version finally passed the house in October. Now it is up to the Senate to act.

Big business lobbyists huddled secretly in Washington's fashionable Madison Hotel on April 14 to discuss how to sabotage the bill.

They didn't know that McClellan, as chairman of the parent Senate Government Operations Committee had already ordered the subcommittee to hold up the bill until after the primaries.

Faced with this ultimatum, the subcommittee had no choice but to accede to his unusual demand.

Footnote: McClellan supported a weak version of the Nader bill in 1970 when there was no political heat on him from Arkansas.

International Telephone and Telegraph, the embattled conglomerate, has been reassuring its stockholders not to worry about the seizure of its assets in Chile. The American taxpayers will make up most of the losses, ITT has promised soothingly.

This shouldn't surprise those who followed the Senate hearings on how ITT finagled an antitrust settlement from the Justice Department. But it has stunned the Overseas Private Investment Corporation, which ITT expects to pick up the tab for its Chilean losses.

OPIC, as it is called, is a federal agency which collects insurance premiums from private American corporations. The premiums go into a pool, which compensates firms whose assets are seized by foreign governments.

The trouble is that the American taxpayers will get stuck if the seizures exceed the premiums. The pool is now down to $115 million, because of President Salvador Allende's wholesale takeovers in Chile. Yet, in Chile alone, there are claims over $214 million against OPIC.

ITT, meanwhile, has notified its stockholders that OPIC will reimburse the conglomerate $89.6 million for the loss of its interests in the Chile Telephone Company. This is news to OPIC, which hasn't figured out what the telephone company is worth.

Yet, astonishingly, ITT's 1971 annual reports lists the $89.6 million claim as a "current asset," insisting it is already receivable.

"We have no idea how they arrived at this figure or why they put it in the annual report," a bewildered OPIC spokesman told us. "They certainly didn't consult us about doing it."

The telephone company, incidentally, was merely the first of the ITT seizures. Thus, the taxpayers may have to bail out the great conglomerate for its political bungling in Chile.

For most of its properties were seized in retaliation for ITT's abortive attempt to keep President Allende from taking office.

Intercepted messages between Moscow and Hanoi reveal that the North Vietnamese made urgent appeals to the Kremlin not to make any Vietnam deal in Moscow with President Nixon.

The secret messages from Hanoi warned that the United States was trying to divide Russia and China from their North Vietnam ally. The messages stressed that the President shouldn't be allowed to settle the Vietnam conflict with anyone but the North Vietnamese.

The Kremlin, in replay, gave its assurance to Hanoi that no deal would be made with Nixon regarding Vietnam. This may explain why the President could get no pledge from party chairman Leonid Brezhnev to help settle the Vietnam War. The most Brezhnev would do, apparently, was to promise he would encourage the North Vietnamese to negotiate a settlement.

Oswald: "Some apparently simple hands offer a choice of plays right at the start. Sometimes all will work. Other times all will fail. When only one will work, it is important to choose it."

Jim: "Here is a case in point. West makes his normal lead of the jack of spades. The four-spot is played from dummy and East drops the deuce. South is in with the ace and must make a decision."

Oswald: "If spades are 6-1 he is not likely to make the hand so the first thing South does is to ignore that possibility. This leaves him two lines of play. The first is to go right after trumps. If East holds the ace of clubs nothing is going to hurt South. If West holds the ace of clubs and East gets in with either the ace of trumps or by means of a diamond lead from his partner the trump play won't succeed. East will lead a club and South will lose two clubs tricks."

Jim: "South can do something about those potential club losers before leading trumps. He can try to cash dummy's king and queen of spades for a club discard."

Oswald: "If East started with just two spades, East will ruff the third lead. South will overruff and still be able to make the hand if the ace of clubs is in the right spot. The spade plays would only cost him if the opening had been a doubleton."

Jim: "A good South will decide the discard attempt is the superior play and will be rewarded this time."

Gibson Blanks Dodgers, 4-0

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ted Simmons, the St. Louis catcher, is grateful for a lot of things but most of all because he's a Cardinal—and thus a teammate of Bob Gibson.

"If I came up to the major leagues five years ago and had to face Gibson all the time, I'd probably be looking for another job," he said.

"I've caught him the last two or three years. They say he used to be faster. Boy, I'd hate to have seen him then."

Simmons' praise followed Gibson's 52nd career shutout, a 4-0 triumph over Los Angeles Sunday in which the veteran pitcher also hit his first home run of the year.

Gibson wasn't as thrilled about the homer as he was about his pitching.

"If I have to depend upon my hitting to win, I'm in trouble," he said following his 209th career victory, one short of the all-time Cardinal club record.

St. Louis, which salvaged one game in the three-game series, takes today off, then opens a three-game series in San Francisco Tuesday night.

Gibson's victory was his third straight after losing his first five. But he insists he's doing nothing different now than he was at the first of the season.

"I'm not pitching any better and I'm certainly not getting any more runs," he said. "It just goes in cycles. In only two games have I pitched poorly. The others could all have gone either way."

In his last three victories he's allowed only two runs in 27 innings, along with only 14 hits.

Joe Torre also homered Sunday for the Cards, his fifth and only his second hit in 19 at St. Louis.

"When you're in a slump you swing at about anything," he said. "I hit a pitch today I had no right to hit."

Torre's homer, in the fifth off of loser Claude Osteen, broke a scoreless tie. Dal Maxvill drove across the Cardinals' second run in the seventh and then Gibson spoiled an otherwise splendid relief stint by Pete Richert with his two-run homer in the ninth.

The Dodgers' only threat against Gibson was in the fourth when Bill Buckner and Willie Davis singled with one out.

Doug Sanders ... Hello Birdie

Americans Add Life To British Amateur

SANDWICH, England (AP) — American golfers didn't do too well in this year's British Amateur Championship, but they were still a vital part of the scene.

"We couldn't do without the Americans," said an official of the Royal St. George's Club which staged the event. "They bring this tournament to life."

"Just watch the interest when a good British player and a good American are paired against each other. A match like that always attracts the biggest gallery."

The championship ended Saturday with an all-English final. Trevor Homer, 28, who never had previously won a major tournament, defeated Alan Thirlwell, 43, by 4 and 3 over 36 holes.

The tournament started with 43 Americans. Only four of them reached the last 32 and only two—Kemp Richardson of Huntington Beach, Calif. and Dick Siderowf of Westport, Conn.—made the last 16. Richardson then reached the quarter-finals, where he was beaten by Thirlwell.

Often the Americans played the wrong kind of chip shot to a green. They chipped high as they do at home—and the ball got carried by the wind into sand traps or deep rough.

The British do it a different way. They chip low and let the ball run on to the green. American players found the greens much faster than any they knew at home.

In the final, Homer twice eagled the 490-yard seventh hole. In the afternoon round, his 36-foot putt at that green started a run of eagle-birdie-birdie which put him five up and virtually clinched the title.

Former NHL Player Killed

DRUMMONDVILLE, Que. (AP) — Gilles Leclerc, 25, a former hockey player with several Canadian and U.S. Teams died Sunday when his car overturned near this community, 75 miles northeast of Montreal. Leclerc finished up his career in 1970-71 playing with the Jacksonville Rockets of the Eastern Hockey League. He also played for the New Haven Blades of the same league.

Kemper Open

72nd-hole Birdie Carries Sanders

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — There was just a trace of a smile around the lips as Doug Sanders announced in obvious but restrained delight:

"I've proved I can still play. And I've proved I can still win. You can't imagine what a wonderful feeling it is."

The dapper guy had just scored a dramatic, one-stroke victory over Lee Trevino with a long birdie putt on the final hole of the 175,000 Kemper Open Sunday, confounding the critics who had written his golfing obituaries score of times.

He'd been derided for his admitted playboy attitude toward life, complete with late hours and liquor. Purists said his unorthodox, short swing would fail him with his advancing years. He lost his exempt status when he failed to play well enough to make the top 60 money winners last season. He hadn't won in two years.

His 19th career victory, worth $35,000 and a congratulatory telephone call from sometimes playing partner Vice President Spiro Agnew, solved it all.

"When that putt dropped, it was like a blessing from heaven," said Sanders. "I don't know how long it was. Some people say 40 feet. Some say 20, but I think it broke that much."

His winning birdie on the 72nd hole, before a huge gallery of some 23,000 basking in the bright, warm sunshine and sweating out one of the most exciting finishes of the year on the pro tour, gave the 38-year-old Sanders a four-under-par 68 on his final round.

His 13-under-par total of 275 on the 7,278 yard Quail Hollow Country Club course was a single stroke better than Trevino, who missed a 10-foot birdie putt on the final hole that would have tied it. Trevino had a 69.

Labron Harris was next at 377, with South African Gary Player, Australian Bruce Devlin and Cesar Sanudo tied at 278. Ray Floyd, Dave Hill and Tom Shaw followed at 279 in the closely bunched field.

Gibby Gibert, who led the second and third rounds, went to a 75-281 and was tied at that figure with defending champ Tom Weiskopf. Billy Casper had a 282 and Arnold Palmer was far back in the field at 288.

On the Move ...

St. Louis Among ABA Cage Cities

NEW YORK (AP) — In an attempt to solidify its league, the American Basketball Association is seeking new sites for its financially troubled Pittsburgh and Miami franchises.

New York Nets President Roy Boe announced Sunday.

Boe said the ABA is considering Chicago, St. Louis, Anaheim, Connecticut and Upper New York State as possible new locations for the two teams.

Boe and Ted Munchak, owner of the Carolina Cougars, have formed a two-man committee to screen and interview applicants to replace ABA Commissioner Jack Dolph, who announced his resignation last week.

Boe said they will present their choices at the ABA Board of Trustees meeting here June 12-13.

Regarding the shifting of franchises, Boe said "I am confident we will merge with the NBA. However, until we do, we want to solidify our league as much as possible."

Meanwhile, the Greensboro Daily News said the ABA would cease to exist after the NBA meetings June 5-16.

Citing an unidentified source, the Daily News said Munchak

Jack Nicklaus did not complete.

Sanders played in the group just in front of Trevino and was tied with the dangerous, gritty Super Mex where he went to the final hole, a 448-yard par four, uphill and with a dogleg left.

Sanders drove the fairway and hit his second to a bank on the left of the green, the ball trickling down to the fringe, some 10 yards from the cup. He took 40 seconds exactly lining it up, then stroked it and raised a clenched right fist aloft as the ball dropped in the cup.

Trevino, pacing restlessly in the fairway while Sanders putted out, ripped his second shot dead at the flag but didn't even hit the hole on the 10-foot putt that would have tied it.

Stengel, Frisch Will Manage Oldtimer Teams

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Former managers Casey Stengel and Frankie Frisch are among eight oldtimers who have agreed to participate in a July 9 oldtimers game at Busch Stadium preceding a Cardinals-Houston Astros contest.

The two will direct clubs in a three-inning game which will include Joe DiMaggio, Charlie Keller and Tom Henrich for New York Yankee oldtimers.

Cardinal stars of the past who have agreed to participate include pitchers Jess Haines, Dizzy Dean and Paul Dean.

Stengel directed the Yankees to 10 American League pennants and seven World Series titles. He managed the Boston Braves while Frisch was piloting the Cards in 1934-38 and 1940-43.

Auto Racing

Allison, B. Unser Take Checkers

By BLOYS BRITT

AP Auto Racing Writer

Bobby Allison says race drivers must stay busy or they go stale. Bobby Unser agrees.

Winning also helps to keep the ego above water and the two Bobbys did it in grand style Sunday.

Allison drove a Chevrolet to victory by more than a mile over superstar Richard Petty in the Mason-Dixon 500-mile stock car race at Dover, Del. It was Allison's 37th start in a race car this season and his 11th triumph, four of them major ones.

Unser, who like Allison is 37 years old, beat Indianapolis champion Mark Donohue across the finish line by four seconds to capture the Rex Mays 150 for United States Auto Club championship cars at Milwaukee.

Allison's average speed was 118.679 m.p.h., Unser's 109.139 m.p.h.

In other weekend auto races, Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil drove a Lotus to victory in the Belgium Grand Prix and took a solid grip on the 1972 world driving title. He now had 28 points to 19 for New Zealander Denis Hulme, who came in third Sunday behind Francois Cedert of France.

Milt Minter led from start to finish to give Pontiac's Firebird its first victory in the Sports Car Club of America's Trans-Am series for sports sedans at the Mid-Ohio Course near Lexington. George Follmer, who had won the two previous Trans-Am events, was second in a Javelin. Third place went to Warren Agor in a Camaro.

Pete Gregg drove a Datsun to victory in a race for 2.5-liter cars that preceded the Trans-Am.

David Hobbs of England wheeled a Lola T-300 to victory in both 25-mile heats of a race for SCCA Formula 5,000 machines at Edmonton, Alberta. Allen Lader was second overall and Graham McRae of Australia third.

Allison, surely one of the busiest race drivers in America, started his Chevrolet in second place at Dover and during the grueling 500 laps exchanged the lead with chief rival Petty 11 times.

Near the end, however, the transmission started failing in Petty's Plymouth and Allison was able to put a full lap of the one-mile oval between himself and stock car racing's only $1 million winner.

Third place went to LeeRoy Yarbrough in a Ford, fourth to Britisher Jackie Oliver in a Mercury and fifth to John Sears in a Plymouth. The latter three were at least 13 miles behind the two leaders.

The Milwaukee race was held up for 45 minutes when Johnny Rutherford's Michener Petroleum Special crashed into the wall, spraying fuel and debris across the track. Rutherford escaped with minor burns.

Donohue's teammate, Gary Bettenhausen, came in third in a Roger Penske McLaren, while Billy Vukovich was fourth and 1971 USAC champion Joe Leonard fifth.

Player, Heard Added to Field

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Professional golfers Gary Player and Jerry Heard have been added to the field of the IVB Golf Classic, scheduled for June 8-11 at the Plymouth-Whitmarsh Valley Country Club near here.

Tournament Director Donald B. Houder said the addition of Player and Heard brings the number of participants in the event to approximately 120.

Zippering to Checker

Bobby Unser of Albuquerque, N.M., driving his turbocharged Eagle-Offenhauser, scored an easy victory Sunday in Milwaukee in the 150-mile

Rex Mays Classic. Unser led all the way from the pole, except about three laps for a mandatory pit stop. He averaged over 109 miles per hour. (UPI)

Sedalia BJ Comes From Behind for 8-3 Victory

Sedalia wiped out a 3-2 New Franklin lead with a three-run sixth inning and added two more insurance runs in the seventh as Sedalia opened their 1972 Central Missouri Ban Johnson League schedule Sunday night in Liberty Park Stadium with an 8-3 victory.

Riding the strong relief pitching of Terry Hudson, who came in with none out in the fifth, when Sedalia starter Larry Newbill yielded three runs, Sedalia gained a share of the lead in the western division standings.

It was earlier reported that Thursday night's 19-1 drubbing of Tipton was a league contest, but local Ban Johnson director Joe Van Horn said Sunday that it was only an exhibition contest.

In other games, Marshall got three-hit pitching from Art Leimkuhler to beat Boonville, last year's western division champion, 6-2. In posting the victory, Marshall handed Boonville ace Denny Serue his first Ban Johnson defeat since the 1970 season. He was the league's top pitcher in 1971 with an 8-0 mark.

Centralia took it on the chin from Tipton, 14-3.

Newbill, who was staked to a 1-0 lead in the third inning on Derrick Crank's solo home run over the centerfield fence, was touched for three straight hits that rang open the top of the fifth. Hudson was called upon by manager "Salt" Schumaker, and he responded well. He struck out Mark Hurl and Jim Melkersman but saw his mound counterpart Charles Melkersman reach first on an error.

However, Sam Marcum grounded out to second to end any further threat.

Sedalia countered with a run in the bottom of the inning, to draw to within one. Larry Neville scored on an error by second baseman Warren Hackman.

Hudson sent New Franklin down in order in the sixth. He saw Sedalia take a 5-3 lead, before he had to return to the mound in the seventh.

Third baseman Noland Schubert grounded out, but four doubles and a sacrifice fly accounted for the go-ahead runs.

David Pirtle and Mike Robertson rifled back-to-back two-baggers; Robertson's drove in Pirtle. Robertson advanced to third on a passed ball, and later scored on Pete Green's sacrifice fly.

Scott Schumaker gave Sedalia another runner at second by doubling. He crossed the plate on Larry Neville's two-base hit. Neville was left stranded on the bases, when Hudson fled out to center.

After sending the visitors down in order again in the seventh, Hudson got a pair of insurance runs, when Schubert and Pirtle came across the plate.

New Franklin was all but out of the inning with no damage after Charles Melkersman got Crank on a ground out and Steve Gerletz on a pop fly. But shortstop Jerry Viviano booted Schubert's ground ball and picked up another error on the play by throwing wide of first.

A single by Pirtle drove him home, which was followed by Robertson's second rbi of the game. He tripled home Pirtle.

Hudson worked out of his toughest jam of the game in the top of the eighth. Following pinch hitter Don Robertson's ground out, New Franklin came up with three straight singles, to load the bases. But Hudson was able to rise to the occasion by getting Hackman on strikes and forcing Walter Banks to ground out to second.

Hudson scored the game's final run in the eighth after reaching first safely on an error by the pitcher. That came with two outs.

Except for the three straight hits in the seventh, it was a fine outing in relief for the Central Missouri State College right-hander. He allowed only four hits during his five innings of pitching after replacing Newbill in the fifth. Hudson recorded eight strike outs and walked none.

Dodger Numbers Retired

The uniform numbers of three all-time Los Angeles Dodger greats were retired at ceremonies prior to Sunday's game between Los Angeles and St. Louis. The numbers of Roy Campanella (39), Sandy Koufax (32) and Jackie

Robinson (42) were the first Dodger numbers to ever be retired. Announcer John Ramsey holds the microphone for Campanella as Koufax and Robinson applaud. (UPI)

Three Sedalians Win Gold Shoe Awards in AAU Qualifying Meet

Steve Fisher, in the intermediate boys division, along with Kathy Anderson, junior girls division, and Lane Smith, midjet boys division, won the gold shoe awards at Saturday's Amateur Athletic Union's Qualifying Meet for the Missouri State Championships of the Junior Olympics program at Jennie Jaynes Stadium.

Fisher, who has established virtually every freshman distance record for Smith-Cotton High School, placed first in the intermediate (14-15) 880 run and first in the mile, as well as fifth in the high jump, to capture that division's honor.

Miss Anderson scored 18 points with firsts in the junior (12-13) 100 and 220-yard dash events; she also was first in the long jump.

Lane Smith netted 16 points by placing first in the midjet (10-11) division 50-yard dash and the long jump. He captured second place in the 220-yard dash.

Other gold shoe winners, which goes to the boys and girls who score the most points in their respective divisions, went to: Bantam girls (9 and under) — Vera Ward, Moberly; bantam boys — Jeff Robinson, Moberly; midjet girls — Debbie Hicks, Moberly; junior boys — Doug Denton, Chillicothe; intermediate girls, Rosie Hicks, Moberly; senior (16-17) girls — Carma Smith, Moberly; senior boys — Randy Winkler, Moberly.

Paul Klover, meet director said, "This is the finest crop of athletes to ever come out of previous years' preliminaries. Several records should be broken here this Saturday in the state finals."

The following persons qualified for the state finals, which are scheduled for Saturday at Jennie Jaynes Stadium. The top four finishers in each event will advance to the Missouri Valley AAU Championships in Salina, Kan., June 24.

Carol Mann's 'Greatest' Victory in Lady Carling

TOWSON, Md. (AP)—To hear her describe it, Carol Mann's two-stroke triumph in the Lady Carling open golf tournament was "unequivocally, the greatest victory" she has ever scored.

She did it in dramatic fashion Sunday before nearly 8,000 hometown fans at the Pine Ridge course.

Locked in a head-to-head battle with veteran Kathy Whitworth, Miss Mann tied the course record with a six-under par 67 to roll up a nine-under par 54-hole total of 210.

Three times in the last five years, Miss Mann had finished a bitterly disappointing second. And each time she could point to the hole where she blew the championship.

"I thought about every one of them out there," she confessed after finishing ahead of Miss Whitworth, who shot a second round 67 and was a four-time champion at Pine Ridge. Miss Whitworth carded a 70 to tally a 212 total.

Marilynn Smith, who held the lead after each of the first two rounds, shot a one under par 72 and finished third at 213. German-born Gerda Boykin finished fourth with 215 after a third round 70.

Miss Mann started the day two strokes behind second round leader Miss Smith and one off Miss Whitworth. She swept past Miss Smith into the lead on the front nine with a course record five-under par 32. Miss Whitworth handled the front nine in 33. At that point they were tied at eight-under par.

Miss Mann took the lead when Miss Whitworth bogeyed the par three 14th hole and Miss Mann increased her lead to two shots with a birdie at the par four 16th.

The locals will take on Whiteman Air Force Base in a Tuesday night twinnbill in Housel Park; the opener is scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

WHL's Formation Overshadows Draft

MONTREAL (AP) — The spectre of the ambitious new World Hockey Association hung over the established National Hockey League as it opened its summer draft meetings today.

There are indications that the new kids on the block are starting to get on the NHL's nerves. And the first effects of the load of WHA signings which have been announced over the last month are expected to start showing up here.

Obviously, a player who has announced his intentions of moving to the new league and has signed a contract with the WHA will not be protected by his NHL club in the draft here.

But if a player is left unprotected, another club could draft him and own the NHL rights to him should he decide to return to the established league. And it is entirely possible that some players will utilize the absence of an option clause in the WHA contracts to return to the NHL at some future date.

The WHA has yet to hire any superstar from the NHL, although Bobby Hull's name is being bandied about by the Winnipeg people. The Chicago left winger has said that if the WHA produces the right amount of money—$1 million to sign and another $1 million for four years—he'll jump. If a club takes a chance and drafts a player who doesn't report, there is no compensation clause.

That's not a very stable footing for teams such as the New York Islanders and Atlanta who must stock their franchises at these meetings. It cost each $6 million to join the NHL—and in New York's case $4 million more in indemnification charges to the Rangers for invading their territory.

Louis Harris Survey

Public Opinion More Favorable

By LOUIS HARRIS

As Sen. George McGovern has become more visible to the American electorate, with the number of voters expressing familiarity with him nationwide rising from 55 to 70 per cent in the past two months, the public impression of him has firmed up to a highly positive profile.

As yet, however, the intensity of this support has not risen to peak levels. By contrast, Sen.

Hubert Humphrey, well known to 82 per cent when the primaries began, strikes most voters in a mixed way — well respected and well liked, but with political handicaps perceived by close to half the electorate. At the same time, those who respond to the Humphrey warmth do so with considerable conviction.

Across the board, on all dimensions, McGovern has improved his personal standing with the voters. The growth in the appeal of the McGovern personality is particularly striking. In early April, voters were evenly divided, 27-26 per cent, over whether he has a "sincere, appealing personality," with 4 out of 10 Americans unable to express an opinion on this score. In a May survey, 26 per cent are still negative but 19 per cent more have reached a judgment about his personality — and all come down on the positive side.

McGovern also shows some signs of communicating a sense of "wanting to help the working man," which is important to his success with the blue-collar vote.

His problems appear to be two-fold: 1) He has yet to convince more than 36 per cent of the voters nationwide that he "inspires confidence as a President should," and 2) The public has not yet made up its mind on the charge that he is "too extreme a liberal."

Basically, the test on George McGovern is how his credibility holds up as he moves up from an outside challenger to a front-runner.

Because he has been a nationally known figure for many years, Senator Humphrey's profile has been subject to far less change.

Those who view the former Vice President as a warm and friendly man include three out of every four Americans. Although he is well liked, Humphrey has nearly as many negatives going against him as positive attributes working for him. Above all else, he is a fully known quantity to the American electorate.

George McGovern, on the other hand, comes across as a late discovery, which gives him momentum. But the newness of these impressions also make him more subject to changing public appraisal — one that can move up or down, depending on his day-to-day performance.

Price Stability a Problem

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Good news about prices is rare today, for in defiance of all the powers of the land, those prices seem to have a plan and a course of their own.

Farmers will be happy because the prices they receive have been rising in recent weeks. And the highly regarded Wharton School economists might foresee a drop in the inflation rate for the remainder of the year.

For the most part, however, there is growing distress about this economic virus which apparently accommodates itself, like the flu, to man's most sophisticated defenses.

Perhaps the most significant comment on the situation was delivered in two words by Dr. Herbert Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers. It's "a problem," he said.

This seemingly meaningless comment followed announcement that wholesale food prices had resumed their climb in May, by six-tenths of a per cent, or five-tenths of a per cent on a seasonal basis, or about 6 per cent on an annual basis.

But not to be forgotten is that this is the same man who, when presented during previous months with the most discouraging economic reports almost always responded by saying he was encouraged.

Now, however, there is a sense among ordinary Americans that time is running out — that results of the economic controls, if they were to come with any significance, would be here by now. But few signs are apparent.

Instead, Americans are asked to have faith that in the future price rises will indeed begin to moderate. But to maintain that faith, one must ignore the natural sequence of higher retail prices following higher wholesale prices.

Those who operate the computer models of the economy or who otherwise involve themselves in scientific analysis claim they do not have to rely on faith. They insist that the numbers forecast a cooloff.

At Wharton, for example, they believe the inflation rate for the remainder of the year should be about 3.6 per cent, "and it is a long time since the American economy has moved in that range."

But it should be remembered that similar forecasts have been made by other scholarly analysts and have proved to be overly optimistic. The freeze has been over for more than six months now and results are disappointing. A strong impact had been hoped for within four months.

Ironically, there does seem to be a broad consensus among

Uncover Hijack Balance

By MIKE GOODKIND
Associated Press Writer

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Searchers have found the $160,000 balance of a $200,000 ransom given an airline hijacker who parachuted into a desert area after collecting the money.

Vern F. Loetterle of the Las Vegas FBI office said Sunday night the money was found in sagebrush in a remote area 20 miles south of here near Washoe Lake.

The other $40,000 was left on the United Air Lines 727 jet when the hijacker parachuted — apparently because there was no room to stow all $200,000 into his backpack.

Robb D. Heady, 22, was arrested Saturday and charged with the Friday night hijacking of UAL flight 239, which originated in New York and was headed for San Francisco. The Vietnam veteran was taken into custody a few miles from where the money was later recovered. A search for the money had begun immediately after Heady's arrest.

After walking aboard the airliner at the airport here, the hijacker — his face masked by a pillow slip — let the passengers leave but held the pilot, copilot and three stewardesses at gunpoint for the $200,000 ransom. With the money delivered, the airliner took off on orders from the gunman who parachuted from it a few miles from the airport.

Heady, a student at Western Nevada Community College near here since his return from military service in Vietnam, was arraigned Saturday in federal air piracy charges and is being held in Washoe County Jail in lieu of $100,000 bond.

Identify Body

NATIONAL CITY, Ill. (AP)

— The body of a young man buried last Tuesday as "John Doe" in an East St. Louis cemetery was identified over the weekend as that of a 22-year-old St. Louisan.

Authorities said Eddie V. Roberts of St. Louis, identified by relatives from a photograph appearing in a weekly newspaper, had testified at a murder trial in St. Louis five days before his body was found April 30.

Roberts' body was found near the police station here. He had been shot in each eye and above the right eye and the body lay unidentified in a morgue for five weeks.

Change in Attitudes Is Key Factor In U.S. Arms Agreement

Editor's Note: The next step in the strategic arms limitation agreement will be approval in Congress. In an interview with The Associated Press, Sen. J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, assesses the agreement and prospects for passage.

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, says a mutual change in attitude is the most important factor in the U.S.-Soviet arms limitation agreements.

The agreements, he said in an interview with The Associated Press, won't reduce U.S. defense spending unless Congress has "enough sense" to reject an antiballistic missile (ABM) site for Washington and administration plans to beef up other weapons systems.

Q. Senator Fulbright, what do you think of the Moscow arms agreements?

A. I think they are indicative of the change of attitude on the part of the government of the United States—a change away from the pursuit of ideological warfare which began in the initiation of the Truman Doctrine and has continued up to today.

They have somewhat the same significance as the visit to Peking. I mean, a change of attitude toward one of the two major Communist countries. And that's very significant. That's the first and most important thing.

The agreement itself—take the ABM: I'm glad they're limiting it to two, although I would hope that they do not build two. I mean I hope that they would not proceed to build one around Washington. There is one question that's raised: By setting that two, it seems to be an undertaking to at least build two, which means another waste of another $10 billion or $15 billion.

Q. Do you believe that the United States position would not be weakened if we did not build an antiballistic missile site around Washington?

A. I think we'd be better off if we didn't have any at all; if nobody had any. I would have preferred, and so told this administration, that we would like to have a "no-ABM" agreement. We had understood at one time—that was just general talk among members of the Senate—that if we could agree to have none that the Russians would agree to dismantle the only one they have, which is around Moscow.

The extensive hearings that we held some time ago indicated that it (Moscow's) was a very primitive one and that even the Russians had no confidence in it. It would have saved a great deal of money and would have improved the relationship and the security of both countries if they didn't try to build an ABM system. At that time, at least, the evidence of the hearings was that the state of the art was such that it was very unreliable, probably useless and not feasible.

Q. You mentioned that the agreement indicates a change in attitude by the United States. Does it also reflect a change in attitude on the part of Russia?

A. Oh, yes. I think so, I think it's a mutual recognition that the policy of an arms race and of continuing an attitude of antagonism and rivalry that leads to confrontation in the Middle East and the Far East is not in the interest of either country. It's a mutual change in attitude and I think it's a significant one, and a very important one.

Q. Would you oppose the ABM agreement?

A. Well, I don't oppose it because it's a part of this change in attitude. I shall approve it personally. I only wish it had been none. We would have been equally secure with neither having any. But I would rather have two than 12.

Q. Suppose Congress does not authorize the Washington ABM site? The treaty does not require us to build it.

A. No, but the psychology of setting these limits tends for people to say we've got to do it. As far as I know there is no evidence the Russians are building any second site. We've had many hearings with the CIA and other people, and the only one they have ever identified that the Russians are building—and it isn't complete—is the one around Moscow.

Q. Are you concerned that the agreement on offensive weapons builds in a superiority for the Soviet Union?

A. I don't think it does. I don't agree with Sen. Jackson (Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash.), if that's the one you have in mind. He's the most outspoken one, and I think he's quite wrong. I think Senator Jackson's views on what constitutes security of a country and what constitutes a strong United States is quite wrong.

Q. Is it your feeling that each side has sufficient deterrent power?

A. More than sufficient. Both sides have more than enough to cause irreparable harm to the other. We have 1,054 Minuteman and they have 1,600 approximately. But this is only part of it. You've got your submarines and your tactical nuclear (weapons) deliverable by airplanes, etc. You put them all together and it's enough to destroy each other several times over. When you get beyond what is sufficient, what difference does it make?

Q. What is the economic advantage to this treaty?

A. That's a very questionable thing that remains to be seen. Because immediately, almost coinciding with the announcement of the agreements, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird announces a new program of what he calls Trident, a new name for the ULMS (Underwater Longrange Missile System). This is an enormously expensive new weapons system. So if because they make this (agreement), they're going to compensate by increasing the quality, the destructiveness, the size, the power of other weapons, unless we have unusual and unprecedented common sense it could prove to be more expensive.

The arms agreement is significant, not economically, necessarily.

But it's significant as one of the indications that these two countries are beginning to travel a new road toward at least a peaceful co-existence and possibly—it's not unthinkable although it's not very probable in the immediate future—a degree of cooperation.

I think of those little things that weren't given much attention, such as the agreements on cooperation in space, medicine, cultural activities. They say "cooperation." They say "mutual activities." "common undertakings" in space. This is very significant. The way to build better relations is to do things together. This is what I hope for. This is why I think the overall exercise is very good.

The psychology I'm afraid will develop is: because we've got this agreement on ABM and on comparable missiles, we've got to go forward on Trident. If we do we will not save any money at all. It's the long-range submarine that will be twice as large as the Polaris and will have much larger missiles carrying 17 independent MIRV's. It's huge. It costs over a billion dollars each. Now under the agreement on submarines, I think they can substitute—this is some of the details that will come up in the agreements that are to be submitted to the Congress. But I assume that Mr. Laird knew what he was talking about in that the Trident can be substituted for the "antiquated" Polaris.

Q. Do you know of any private understandings that were reached in connection with these agreements?

A. I only know what's been reported in the papers that the specific agreements, as distinguished from the treaty that deals with strategic weapons, will be submitted to the Congress at the time of the treaties being considered. While they haven't yet been made public, they're not intended to remain secret.

Q. Will Congress have to approve both the agreement and the treaty?

A. Yes, it is my understanding they will. The treaty will be approved by the Senate under the treaty clause. The agreements with regard to numbers and all the details will be in the form of an agreement which will be approved by the Congress as a whole.

Q. What is your feeling of the sense of the Foreign Relations Committee in action on the ABM treaty?

A. I would think that the majority of the Foreign Relations Committee would very likely approve it.

Q. When do you expect to get started?

A. We can't determine that until they're submitted.

Just as a footnote, one thing I was a little disappointed in there was almost no mention, except the very last day, on the part of the committee or anything, about the United Nations. These big countries are so full of themselves they never think about other countries or the United Nations.

Q. What about other countries? Do you anticipate any adverse reaction?

A. No, I don't think so, because the others feel so helpless compared to these two great giants that I think most of them are very suspicious of and afraid they're going to precipitate trouble which they cannot avoid being involved in. And I think they're probably all very pleased, with the exception, I guess, of the Vietnamese. There have been reports they have grave reservations about it for fear they've been sold down the river. I know nothing about that.

Savings Limitless Dowd Says

PLATTE CITY, Mo. (AP) — Possibilities of reducing Missouri's dollar drain in state government are "virtually limitless," Democratic gubernatorial Edward L. Dowd told Platte County Democrats Sunday.

If elected, Dowd told his audience, one of his first acts would be to implement recommendations of the Little Hoover Commission under a program designed to streamline the state governmental structure.

Dowd described the common denominator among Missourians as a desire for efficient and capable state administration providing persons with "services they deserve at a price they can afford."

"The people are tax weary, there is no doubt about it," he said. "But they realize that the state services they require cost money. This is not their complaint. Their complaint is with the seemingly outrageous waste of their tax dollars."

Dowd's remarks were prepared for Democrats attending a picnic in the courthouse yard here.
